High Stakes Poverty Testing And Failure In American Schools:

High Stakes Dale D. Johnson, Bonnie Johnson, 2002-05-21 High Stakes Testing Poverty and Failure in American Schools is a critical ethnography of one year in one of the most impoverished schools in America Redbud Elementary School in Redbud Louisiana has 611 students 95 percent of whom qualify for free breakfast and free lunch Many of the children who attend Redbud are the poorest of the poor Their homes are substandard and include trailers shotgun houses and housing project apartments Some lack electricity running water and flooring Most of the children 80 percent of whom are African American live with a single parent an aunt or a grandmother who hold minimum wage jobs Many of the children do not receive medical or dental care Their neighborhoods teem with alcohol and drug abuse Several pupils have witnessed shootings and other types of violence Louisiana was the first state and is now one of eight states in the nation that mandates failure and grade repetition for elementary and middle school students who do not pass an end of year high stakes test The authors taught third and fourth grade full time for one school year at Redbud Elementary and this book tells the story of that year Three major themes are addressed throughout the book the grinding effects of acute poverty on all aspects of life the negative consequences of the continuing drive for higher test scores in public schools and the unreasonable demands placed on children teachers and administrators Other issues surface in the book the rising growth of for profit ventures feeding off the accountability movement the developing alliances between policymakers and corporate profiteers and the federal government's increasing domination of public schooling Readers may note similarities between Redbud Elementary and underfunded public schools in their own states The story of Louisiana's Redbud typifies the unfolding national tragedy in the way poor children are being educated because of self serving political and corporate interests

High Stakes Dale D. Johnson, Bonnie Johnson, 2005-10-13 High Stakes brings the voices of students and teachers to our national debates over school accountability and educational reform Recounting the experiences of two classrooms during one academic year the book offers a critical exploration of excessive state mandated monitoring high stakes testing pressures and inequities in public school funding that impede the instructional work of teachers especially those who serve children of poorer families Redbud Elementary has no playground no library no hot water and no art classes Ninety five percent of the children qualify for a free breakfast or lunch Most of the children live with a single parent or relative some live in homes without electricity running water or floors The authors who moved from comfortable college professor positions to teach in a poor school district offer an eye opening examination of the daily school lives of children who live in crushing poverty and teachers who work under extraordinary stress Their tale is at times heartbreaking heartwarming or infuriating They explain why many recent educational reforms are off track and argue for more meaningful reforms that can empower teachers and students and better meet the challenges of our communities and the national interest This second edition updates the story of Redbud Elementary and takes a hard look at the national expansion of accountability from preschool through college A new final chapter focuses on the national effects of the No Child Left Behind Act as well as states experiences with mandates and the role of big business in the testing process This edition concludes with coverage of the so called silent professionals and opposition to high stakes testing and a consideration of the future prospects for American education Stop High-stakes Testing Dale D. Johnson,2008

The objectives of corrective justice are affordable housing with reliable running water and electricity employment for parents and guardians to make a living wage top notch tutors for all children who need them equity in school buildings personnel and resources adequate medical and dental care for all students and violence free communities and home lives These objectives are appropriate in a nation where children recite the words with liberty and justice for all at the start of each school day The authors argue that until corrective justice has been established high stakes testing in public schools must be discontinued BOOK JACKET High-Stakes Testing in Education Theo J.H.M

Edgen,Gordon Stobart,2015-10-14 High stakes educational testing is a global phenomenon which is increasing in both scale and importance Assessments are high stakes when there are serious consequences for one or more stakeholders Historically tests have largely been used for selection or for providing a licence to practise making them high stakes for the test takers Testing is now also used for the purposes of improving standards of teaching and learning and of holding schools accountable for their students results These tests then become high stakes for teachers and schools especially when they have to meet externally imposed targets More recent has been the emergence of international comparative testing which has become high stakes for governments and policy makers as their education systems are judged in relation to the performances of other countries In this book we draw on research which examines each of these uses of high stakes testing The articles evaluate the impact of such assessments and explore the issues of value and fairness which they raise To underline the international appeal of high stakes testing the studies are drawn from Australia Africa the Caribbean Europe former Soviet republics and North America Collectively they illustrate the power of high stakes assessment in shaping for better or for worse policy making and schooling This book was originally published as a special issue of Assessment in Education Principles Policy Practice Classical Social Theory in Use Robert Bickel,2012-12-01

This book provides an introduction to classical social theory through discussion application and synthesis of the work of Karl Marx Emile Durkheim and George Herbert Mead Rather than merely summarizing and evaluating their continuing influence their ideas and ways of reasoning are applied in thoroughly developed fashion to contemporary issues and historical events of enduring importance In the process contributions of these three very different authors are used to complement each other and are eventually synthesized making clear that they can be melded into one multilevel even if tentative and rudimentary theoretical perspective The book is intended to systematically and compactly introduce the most useful concepts of the three classical theorists However new concepts are typically introduced as part of the narrative rather than in box text definitional fashion This is consistent with the books primary purpose to enable the reader to begin to think like Marx Durkheim and Mead especially insofar as their work can be synthesized into one point of view dealing with inter related macro level middle range and micro level social phenomena The section on Marx will be longer than the sections on Durkheim and Mead In part the length of the discussion of Marx s work is due to use of this section to begin introducing pertinent ideas of Durkheim and Mead The New Instructional Leadership Rose Ylimaki,2013-10-23 Co published with UCEA this exciting new textbook is the first to tackle the ISLLC Standard 2 Instructional Leadership In light of recent curriculum reforms accountability policies and changing demographics today s leaders must not only have expertise in culture building and supervision skills but also in adult learning cultural funds of knowledge curriculum and the role of politics The New Instructional Leadership helps aspiring school leaders examine their beliefs and practices about instructional leadership in relation to ISLLC Standard 2 and provides the theory learning experiences and analytical tools for effective leadership in today s world Chapters cover issues of collaboration curricular programming motivation supervision accountability capacity building use of technology monitoring and evaluation Special Features Case Studies encourage readers to reflect and actively engage with instructional leadership beliefs and practices Fieldwork and Extended Reflections a range of inquiry activities provide students with opportunities to consider problems of practice related to the standard Strategies for Leaders offers students practical and accessible ideas in order to transform their practice to address the complex challenges facing contemporary schools Theoretically grounded and research based this unique volume will help aspiring and current leaders to understand instructional leadership and help them to sustain strong curricular and instructional programs in their increasingly diverse schools and communities What's Hot in Literacy Evan Ortlieb,Stephanie Grote-Garcia,Jack Cassidy,Earl H. Cheek Jr,2020-09-30 This book showcases hot topics in literacy providing teachers with practices for literacy improvement The international scholars which comprise the author line up for this edited collection describe the evidence based research findings from their research in K 12 schools to demonstrate how literacy success is fostered across the globe Routledge Handbook of Disability Studies Nick Watson,2013-03-01 The Routledge Handbook of Disability Studies takes a multidisciplinary approach to disability and provides an authoritative and up to date overview of the main issues in the field around the world today Adopting an international perspective and consisting entirely of newly commissioned chapters arranged thematically it surveys the state of the discipline examining emerging and cutting edge areas as well as core areas of contention Divided in five sections this comprehensive handbook covers different models and approaches to disability how key impairment groups have engaged with disability studies and the writings within the discipline policy and legislation responses to disability studies and to disability activism disability studies and its interaction with other disciplines such as history philosophy and science and technology studies disability studies and different life experiences examining how disability and disability studies intersects with ethnicity sexuality gender childhood and ageing Containing chapters from an international selection of leading scholars this authoritative handbook is an invaluable reference for all academics researchers and more advanced students in disability studies and associated disciplines such as sociology health studies and social work

Misplaced Blame Bonnie Johnson, 2021-10-14 Misplaced Blame Decades of Failing Schools Their Children and Their Teachers examines the underlying causes of why schools fail The book describes the challenges that teachers and their pupils encounter in an environment that is dictated by poverty and harsh unfunded mandates The volume illustrates that school failure reflects a lack of opportunities nothing more The book also discusses the changing role of teachers over the years and teacher led efforts to improve their students circumstances

Alternatives to Privatizing Public Education and Curriculum Daniel Ness, Stephen J. Farenga, 2017-03-16 Through conversations in honor of Dale D Johnson this book takes a critical view of the monoculture in curriculum and policy that has developed in education with the increase of federal funding and privatization of services for public education and examines the shift from public interest and control to private and corporate shareholder hegemony Most states educational responsibilities assessment of constituents curriculum development and instructional protocols are increasingly being outsourced to private enterprises in an effort to reduce state budgets These enterprises have been given wide access to state resources such as public data from state sanctioned testing results field testing rights to public schools and financial assistance Chapter authors challenge this paradigm as well as the model that has set growing premiums on accountability and performance measures Connecting common impact between the standards movement and the privatization of education this book lays bare the repercussions of high stakes accountability coupled with increasing privatization Winner of The Society of Professors of Education Book Award 2018

Spatial Intelligence Daniel Ness, Stephen J. Farenga, Salvatore G. Garofalo, 2017-05-12 Spatial Intelligence examines public and professional conceptions of the relationships between thinking about spatial attributes and active engagement in spatially related constructions and designs Even though children s and adolescents spatial propensities in constructive activities parallel the skills needed by professionals in both established and emerging fields spatial education is often missing from K 12 curricula and is easily impeded by teachers parents or other individuals who do not provide contexts in formalized settings such as schools to nurture its potential This book bridges the gap by linking the natural spatial inclinations interests and proclivities of individuals from a variety of cultures with professional training and expertise in engineering architecture science and mathematics Educators will be better able to achieve the skills and awareness necessary to provide children and young adults with the vital opportunities inherent in spatial education

Teaching as a Clinical Practice Profession Patrick M. opens the book with a focus on teaching as a clinical practice profession providing the reader with an introduction to the book and an understanding of the growing importance of clinical practice in teacher preparation The authors of Chapters Two Ten present field based research that examines the important role of clinical practice in teacher preparation Each chapter offers the reader an examination of clinical practice and field based experience in teacher preparation based on formal research that provides the reader with insight into how the research study was conducted and equally important the findings and conclusions drawn with respect to clinical practice and teacher preparation Finally Chapter Eleven presents an epilogue that focuses on the future of clinical practice and its growing importance in teacher preparation

No One Left Standing Michele Wages, 2016-11-14 Every public school student in the U S will experience various types of testing each year For decades the purpose and quality of such testing the time it takes to administer and take the test and how the data is used are the topic of discussion among students parents educators and policymakers Those supporting the importance of testing assume that more assessment improves student achievement and that the pros of testing outweigh their perceptions of the additional costs Those against excessive testing believe that schools are sacrificing learning time in order to test or prepare for the test They also believe that reduced learning time of non tested subjects occurs and more time is given to those students that are performing right below the proficiency score or bubble kids instead of developing every student s full potential Testing in U S public schools is out of control The stress and pressures for all involved have effects that are not even measurable in most instances Is this really the best thing for our schools Are there alternative measures that may serve our future in a better way Will the rewrite of NCLB be enough

Critical Curriculum Leadership Rose M. Ylimaki, 2011-01-03 Critical Curriculum Leadership explores the formation of curriculum leadership in relation to broader cultural and political shifts and makes the case for an alternative leadership theory at the intersection of educational leadership and curriculum studies

The Irregular School Roger Slee, 2011-04-19 The Irregular School explores the foundations of the current controversies and argues that continuing to think in terms of the regular school or the special school obstructs progress towards inclusive education

Rethinking English in Schools Viv Ellis, Carol Fox, Brian Street, 2007-11-20 Why should young people study a subject called English This question lies at the heart of this fascinating monograph which brings together the diverse perspectives of many leading thinkers about English and literacy education This meticulously researched and well written collection takes as its starting point the importance of the history of the subject in the formation of its constitution and its boundaries First and foremost it proposes that questions of aims and values have informed these choices Equally it suggests that returning to these educational questions helps us to understand curriculum and pedagogy in complex ways that a simple focus on content and methods neglects Curriculum and pedagogy bring learners teachers institutions and the wider society into the debate

Critical Dispositions Greg Dimitriadis, 2012-06-12 Set against the current proliferation of global difference and economic realignment Critical Dispositions explores the notions of evidence and expertise in times of material scarcity Both have come to the forefront of national and international debate in education as evidence and evidence based research and pedagogical practices continue as major trends in educational policy Author Greg Dimitriadis maintains this debate is best understood as part of a broader rise in professional and managerial discourses in various aspects of educational research and practice Each aims to control and contain some aspect of research and practice in ways that are increasingly specific and targeted As demonstrated through examples from critical intellectuals and artists outside the field of education this current proliferation of specific autonomous fields of inquiry and practice marks a much deeper ambivalence about our contemporary moment and how we understand it Following Bourdieu and other theorists Dimitriadis argues that educational researchers and practitioners today must be increasingly self reflexive about the positions they take up in various fields of inquiry what they allow us to see and to understand what they blind us to This kind of self reflexivity however is becoming increasingly difficult today as material demands and dislocations are forcing educators to occupy particular fields in more specific ways Unpacking this tension and offering alternative thinking tools is at the core of this volume
