

The background of the book cover is a photograph. On the right side, there is a stone tower with a conical roof made of grey shingles. A blue flag with a white cross is flying from a pole on top of the roof. The tower has several rectangular openings. To the left of the tower, there is a lush green garden with various plants, including some tall, thin, conical shrubs. In the background, there are more trees and a hillside. The sky is overcast.

Highland Living Landscape Traditions Scotland:

Highland Living Franck Ferrand, 2010-02-16 An illustrated volume that pays tribute to Scotland's multifaceted allure from striking natural landscapes to elegant castle living. The craggy peaks and reflective lochs of the rugged Scottish landscape have inspired writers and travelers for centuries. With its rolling hills and quiet hamlets, Scotland is a patchwork of stunning green valleys and windswept moors scattered with the stony ruins of ancient abbeys and castle strongholds. From the peat bogs of the Highlands to the ordered elegance of Lady Cawdor's Castle, stunning photographs capture Scotland's national treasures. Draw inspiration from cozy interiors that feature handcrafted furniture, tartan accessories, and outdoorsy details such as hunting trophies and painted landscapes. Discover Scotland's colorful traditions from kilts and bagpipes to whisky and haggis. Follow hunters and their dogs on the lookout for fowl and wade into clear running streams where fly fishers catch the bounty of Scotland's waterways. Includes an address book for travelers and traditional recipes for those seeking a taste of the Scottish lifestyle at home.

Nature and Identity in Cross-Cultural Perspective A. Buttner, L. Wallin, 2013-04-17 Nature and Identity in Cross Cultural Perspective presents 20 essays which explore diverse cultural interpretations of the earth's surface. Contrasted with each other and with the potentially cosmopolitan culture of science, these detailed studies of ways in which different cultures conceptualise nature appear in the context of global environmental change. Understanding across cultural lines has never been more important. This book shows how individual cultures see their own histories as offering protection for nature while often viewing others as lacking such ethical restraints. Through such writing, a discourse of understanding and common action becomes possible. The authors come from the places they discuss and offer passionate as well as scholarly visions of nature within their cultural homes. Audience: This volume is of interest to academics and professionals working in the fields of cultural geography, environmental history, environmental studies, history of environmental ideas, environmental education, landscape and literature, nature and culture. It can be used for courses in the above mentioned areas and seminars in comparative literature. It can also be used as a complementary text to provide cultural context to literary readings and for seminars on cultural aspects of the environment.

Living Traditions of Scotland George Scott-Moncrieff, 1951 Europe's Living Landscapes Bas Pedrolí, Anne van Doorn, Geert de Blust, 2014-12-22 This book is the result of three symposia of the Dutch Society for Landscape Ecology. The first symposium in 2005 was about the National Ecological Network in the Netherlands. The reason was that the implementation of the NEN decided upon in 1990 was halfway. The second symposium in 2006 was about urban ecology and the third one to be held in 2007 will be about civil infrastructure. This book does not cover the conferences completely and new contributions are added. The three themes are important contexts in which landscape ecologists do their research and apply their knowledge and skills. Of course there are many more subjects to hold conferences about, for example climate change, urbanisation, agriculture, landscape ecology itself, etc. The focus of the conferences is on the Netherlands with its urbanisation, intensive land use, and water management as characteristic features Although many WLO members do their work abroad or in an international context these conferences offer a window on what happens in the Dutch context The experiences may be of value for other contexts and that is why we present the results in English The selected themes and the focus on the Dutch context are serious demarcations of what landscape ecology in the Netherlands is all about The book does not represent all research and applications of landscape ecology

Visual Culture in the Northern British Archipelago Ysanne Holt, David Martin-Jones, Owain Jones, 2018-05-16 This edited collection including contributors from the disciplines of art history film studies cultural geography and cultural anthropology explores ways in which islands in the north of England and Scotland have provided space for a variety of visual cultural practices and forms of creative expression which have informed our understanding of the world Simultaneously the chapters reflect upon the importance of these islands as a space in which and with which to contemplate the pressures and the possibilities within contemporary society This book makes a timely and original contribution to the developing field of island studies and will be of interest to scholars studying issues of place community and the peripheries

On the Other Side of Sorrow James Hunter, 2014-07-03 An extraordinary intellectual voyage through Gaelic environmental awareness centuries ahead of its time and its value today The Herald Caring for the environment developing rural communities and ensuring the survival of minority cultures are all laudable objectives but they can conflict and nowhere more so than the Scottish Highlands As environmentalists strive to preserve the scenery and wildlife of the Highlands the people who belong there and who have their own claims on the landscape question this new threat to their culture which dates back thousands of years In this sensitive thought provoking book James Hunter probes deep into this culture to examine the dispute between Highlanders who developed a strong environmental awareness a thousand years before other Europeans and conservationists whose thinking owes much to the romantic ideals of the nineteenth century More than that he also suggests a new way of dealing with the problem advocating drastic land use changes and the repopulation of empty glens an approach that has worldwide implications A very thoughtful piece of advocacy The Scotsman

Remembering the Past in Nineteenth-Century Scotland James Coleman, 2014-07-16 At a time when the Union between Scotland and England is once again under the spotlight Remembering the Past in Nineteenth Century Scotland examines the way in which Scotland's national heroes were once remembered as champions of both Scottish and British patriotism Whereas current popular orthodoxy claims that 19th century Scotland was a mire of sentimental Jacobitism and kow towing unionism this book shows that Scotland's national heroes embodied a consistent expressive and robust view of Scottish nationality From the potent legacy of William Wallace and Robert the Bruce through the controversial figure of the reformer John Knox to the largely neglected religious radicals the Covenanters these heroes once played a vital role in the formation of the virtues that made 19th century Britain great Examined through the prism of commemoration this book uncovers a reading of Scotland's past entirely opposed to the now dominant narratives of medieval proto nationalism and Calvinist misery

The Soil Underfoot G. Jock Churchman, Edward R. Landa, 2014-04-21 The largest part of the world's food comes from its soils either directly from plants or via animals fed on pastures and crops Thus it is necessary to maintain and if possible improve the quality and hence good health of soils while enabling them to support the growing world population The Soil Underfoot Infinite Possibilities for a Finite Resource arms readers with historical wisdom from various populations around the globe along with current ideas and approaches for the wise management of soils It covers the value of soils and their myriad uses viewed within human and societal contexts in the past present and supposed futures In addition to addressing the technical means of maintaining soils this book presents a culturally and geographically diverse collection of historical attitudes to soils including philosophical and ethical frameworks which have either sustained them or led to their degradation Section I describes major challenges associated with climate change feeding the increasing world population chemical pollution and soil degradation and technology Section II discusses various ways in which soils are or have been valued including in film and contemporary art as well as in religious and spiritual philosophies such as Abrahamic religions Maori traditions and in Confucianism Section III provides stories about soil in ancient and historic cultures including the Roman Empire Greece India Japan Korea South America New Zealand the United States and France Section IV describes soil modification technologies such as polymer membrane barriers and soil uses outside commercial agriculture including the importance of soils for recreation and sports grounds The final section addresses future strategies for more effective sustainable use of soils emphasizing the biological nature of soils and enhancing the use of green water retained from rainfall

Restoring Layered Landscapes Marion Hourdequin, David G. Havlick, 2016 Restoring Layered Landscapes brings together historians geographers philosophers and interdisciplinary scholars to explore ecological restoration in landscapes with complex histories shaped by ongoing interactions between humans and nature For many decades ecological restoration particularly in the United States focused on returning degraded sites to conditions that prevailed prior to human influence This model has been broadened in recent decades and restoration now increasingly focuses on the recovery of ecological functions and processes rather than on returning a site to a specific historical state Nevertheless neither the theory nor the practice of restoration has fully come to terms with the challenges of restoring layered landscapes where nature and culture shape one another in deep and ongoing relationships Former military and industrial sites provide paradigmatic examples of layered landscapes Many of these sites are not only characterized by natural ecosystems worth preserving and restoring but also embody significant political social and cultural histories This volume grapples with the challenges of restoring and interpreting such complex sites What should we aim to restore in such places How can restoration adequately take the legacies of human use into account Should traces of the past be left on the landscape and how can interpretive strategies be creatively employed to make visible the complex legacies of an open pit mine or chemical weapons manufacturing plant Restoration aims to create new value but not always without loss Restoration often disrupts existing ecosystems infrastructure and artifacts The chapters in this volume consider what restoration can tell us more generally about the relationship between continuity and change and how the past can and should inform our thinking about the future These insights in turn will help foster a more thoughtful approach to human environment relations in an era of unprecedented anthropogenic global environmental change

A Shared Legacy Fintan Cullen, 2017-07-05 A Shared Legacy Essays on Irish and Scottish Art and Visual Culture brings together for the first time a unique selection of new research by leading Irish Scottish English and North American scholars to explore the varying ways in which the visual can operate within the context of two countries with related experiences of lost statehood yet retained nationhood Covering a span of three centuries this skilfully crafted book takes the discussion of Irish and Scottish art beyond the often isolationist approach adopted in the past dealing directly with issues of nationality in a wider context The authors identify national concerns through a range of themes race class union and assimilation or nationalism and internationalism and while many of the essays focus on paintings sculpture prints and watercolours others consider a wider notion of visual culture by investigating photography magic lantern slides and the home arts of embroidery and textiles
