Rury,2023-10-13 An Age of Accountability highlights the role of test based accountability as a policy framework in American education from 1970 to 2020 For more than half a century the quest to hold schools and educators accountable for academic achievement has relied almost exclusively on standardized assessment The theory of change embedded in almost all test based accountability programs held that assessment with stipulated consequences could lead to major improvements in schools This was accomplished politically by proclaiming lofty goals of attaining universal proficiency and closing achievement gaps which repeatedly failed to materialize But even after very clear disappointments no other policy framework has emerged to challenge its hegemony The American public today has little confidence in institutions to improve the quality of goods and services they provide especially in the public sector As a consequence many Americans continue to believe that accountability remains a vital necessity even if educators and policy scholars disagree Effective Teacher Selection Arthur E. Borman,Sherman Dorn,2012-02-01 In Education Reform in Florida sociologists and historians evaluate Governor Jeb Bush s nation leading school reform policies since 1999 They examine the startlingly broad range of education policy changes enacted in Florida during Bush s first term including moves toward privatization with a voucher system more government control of public education institutions with centralized accountability mechanisms and a superboard for all public education The contributors arrive at a mixed conclusion regarding Bush's first term education policies while he deserves credit for holding students to higher standards his policies have unfortunately pushed for equality in a very narrow way The contributors remain skeptical about seeing significant and sweeping improvement in how well Florida schools work for all students
