Issues in Curating Contemporary Art and Performance Judith Rugg, Michèle Sedgwick, 2007 To stay relevant art curators must keep up with the rapid pace of technological innovation as well as the aesthetic tastes of fickle critics and an ever expanding circle of cultural arbiters Issues in Curating Contemporary Art and Performance argues that despite these daily pressures good curating work also requires more theoretical attention In four thematic sections a distinguished group of contributors consider curation in light of interdisciplinary and emerging practices examine conceptions of curation as intervention and contestation and explore curation's potential to act as a reconsideration of conventional museum spaces Against the backdrop of cutting edge developments in electronic art art science collaboration nongallery spaces and virtual fields contributors propose new approaches to curating and new ways of fostering critical inquiry Now in paperback this volume is an essential read for scholars curators and art enthusiasts alike Curatorial Challenges Malene Vest

The Participator in Contemporary Art Kaija Kaitavuori, 2018-08-30 The early 21st century has seen contemporary art make continued use of audience participation in which the spectator becomes part of the artwork itself In this book Kaija Kaitavuori claims that the participator is a new artistic role that does not fall under the auspices of artist or spectator and in proving such she devises a four group typology of involvement Her classification distinguishes between different forms of engagement and identifies their specific features The key criteria she proposes are how concepts of authorship and ownership shift in relation to collectively created work how contracts regulating the use and production of shared work are arranged and the extent to which involvement in making art can be regarded as democratic This highly original book thus offers students and teachers the tools with which to improve their understanding of participatory art and removes the confusing terminology that has characterized so many other discussions

Interpreting Art in Museums and Galleries Christopher Whitehead, 2011-12-02 In this pioneering book, Christopher Whitehead provides an overview and critique of art interpretation practices in museums and galleries. Covering the philosophy and sociology of art traditions, art history, and art display, the book explores the psychology of the aesthetic experience and ideas about learning and communication. Whitehead advances major theoretical frameworks for understanding interpretation from curators' and visitors' perspectives. Although not a manual, the book is deeply practical. It presents extensively researched European and North American case studies involving interviews with professionals engaged in significant cutting-edge interpretation projects. Finally, it sets out the ethical and political responsibilities of institutions and professionals engaged in art interpretation. Exploring the theoretical and practical dimensions of art interpretation in accessible language, this book covers the construction of art by museums and galleries in the form of collections, displays, exhibition, and discourse. The historical and political dimensions of art interpretation, the functioning of narrative categories and chronologies in art displays, practices, discourses, and problems surrounding the interpretation of historical and contemporary art, visitor experiences, and questions of authorship and accessibility, the role of exhibition texts, new interpretive technologies, and live interpretation in art museum and gallery contexts are thoroughly researched with immediately practical applications. Interpreting Art in Museums and Galleries will inform the practices of art curators and those studying the subject.

The City on Display Joel Robinson, 2022-08-19 The City on Display: Architecture Festivals and the Urban Commons reflects on the biennials, triennials, and other festivals of architecture and design that have been held over the last two decades as they expand and transform in response to the exigencies of planetary urbanisation. Joel Robinson examines the development of these large-scale international and perennial exhibitions as they address such challenges as urban regeneration, heritage preservation, climate change, and the migration crisis. Homing in on examples of festivals in Venice, Rotterdam, Oslo, Tallinn, Sharjah, Seoul, Shenzhen, and Hong Kong, the author describes how they alter the public spaces that host them, either through civic boosterism and gentrification on the one hand or through a reassertion of the urban commons and the right to the city on the other hand He attempts to thematise the architecture festival's relationship with the city and interrogate its potential as a forum for global debate about the emergencies of the urban condition This book will be beneficial for students and academics of architecture and urbanism and especially those who have an interest in how the city gets exhibited at such festivals and even reimagined as something other than it currently is
