

- Determine Taxable Basis - Determines the amount to use upon which to calculate the tax rate.
- Calculate Tax Amounts - Calculates the tax and displays the calculation results.
- Determine Recovery Rate - Determines the recovery rate to apply to each applicable tax on the transaction.

Depending on the complexity of the tax rules in a tax regime, you may or may not define a tax rule for each of the above processes. If there is no complex rule associated with any of the above processes, then the default values, as specified during setup, are used during the tax determination process.

Analyzing Your Tax Requirements

This section provides a few ideas for analyzing your tax requirements and using E-Business Tax and other E-Business Suite applications to implement a solution.

An analysis of your tax requirements begins with an analysis of yourself. So the first question to ask is, "Who am I?"

Who am I?

You first need to answer questions about yourself and your relationship to the legal and regulatory agencies that enable you to operate in one or more countries.

Where do I have operations/businesses?

Identify the countries in which you operate. You will need to identify the country where you are legally registered, and the countries where you have subsidiary companies that are legally registered or have a legal presence.

Identify your first party legal entities in each country that you are legally registered. Use the Legal Entity Configurator to capture information about your legal entities and legal registrations.

You also need to identify your branches, divisions, and locations in the various countries where you do business that need to be registered for tax. This is typically with the local regulatory bodies. Such subdivisions of a legal entity are called legal establishments.

What are the operations/businesses that I have?

Next consider the types of operations and businesses that you are engaged in, in the countries where you have legal entities or establishments. The type of industries that
