Food Autonomy in Chicago Pancho McFarland, 2025. Through eighteen years of field research, dialogues with colleagues, deep involvement in the food movement community in Chicago, and introspection, Pancho McFarland asks: Is the loosely connected network of Black and Indigenous land stewards and food warriors in Chicago an anticolonial force for the liberation of all our relations? This examination of a sector of the food autonomy movement in Chicago provides important new ways of understanding race, relations, gender, sexuality, spirituality, pedagogy, identity, and their importance to the dynamics of social movements. Additionally, the book explores how revolutionary culture, principles, and organization of American Indigenous, diasporan Africans, anarchists, Mexicans, and others have been adopted, adapted, or rejected in our food movement. In this autoethnography of the food movement, McFarland argues that at our best, we work to establish a new society like that theorized and enacted by Indigenous and Black anarchists. However, the forces of Wetiko, colonialism, capitalism, heteropatriarchy, and white supremacy make the work of BIPOC food warriors difficult. Wetiko's conceptual categories, including race, gender, sexuality, and citizenship, influence our worldviews and affect our behaviors. These limitations and our responses to them are captured in the dialogues and chapters of Food Autonomy in Chicago.
