Climate change has intensified the need for communities to find creative and meaningful ways to address the sustainability of their environments. The authors focus on the creative and collaborative ways local scale climate action reflects the extraordinary measures taken by ordinary people. This includes critical engagement with the ways in which novel social practices and partnerships emerge between people, organisations, institutions, governance arrangements and eco systems. The book successfully highlights the transformative power of socially innovative activities and initiatives in response to the climate crisis and critically explores how different individuals and groups undertake climate action as quiet activism, the embodied acts of collective disruption, subversion, creativity and care at the local scale.
