Physics Education and Gender Allison J. Gonsalves, Anna T. Danielsson, 2020-04-24 This Edited Volume engages with concepts of gender and identity as they are mobilized in research to understand the experiences of learners teachers and practitioners of physics The focus of this collection is on extending theoretical understandings of identity as a means to explore the construction of gender in physics education research This collection expands an understanding of gendered participation in physics from a binary gender deficit model to a more complex understanding of gender as performative and intersectional with other social locations e g race class LGBT status ability etc This volume contributes to a growing scholarship using sociocultural frameworks to understand learning and participation in physics and that seeks to challenge dominant understandings of who does physics and what counts as physics competence Studying gender in physics education research from a perspective of identity and identity construction allows us to understand participation in physics cultures in new ways We are able to see how identities shape and are shaped by inclusion and exclusion in physics practices discourses that dominate physics cultures and actions that maintain or challenge structures of dominance and subordination in physics education The chapters offered in this book focus on understanding identity and its usefulness in various contexts with various learner or practitioner populations This scholarship collectively presents us with a broad picture of the complexity inherent in doing physics and doing gender

Making Schools Better for Disadvantaged Students Stephen Gorard, Beng Huat See, Nadia Siddiqui, 2022-11-25 2023
BERA Educational Research Book of the Year Around the world governments charities and other bodies are concerned with improving education especially for the lowest attaining and most disadvantaged students Making Schools Better for Disadvantaged Students presents detailed research into how poverty affects student segregation and underachievement in schools It contains the first ever large scale evaluation of how funding can best be used to lower the poverty attainment gap for disadvantaged students Drawing on a wealth of empirical research from England India and Pakistan as well as worldwide reviews of relevant studies the book presents high quality evidence on the impact of funding policy initiatives such as the Pupil Premium funding in England and the many variations of similar schemes worldwide It analyses education measures which have been put in place and discusses ways in which these can be used efficiently and fairly to allocate funding to students who are persistently at risk of underachievement The book is unique in synthesising many forms of evidence from around the world and finding a definition of educational disadvantage that can be used fairly across different contexts Offering significant implications for ways to improve educational outcomes for disadvantaged students the book will be essential reading for students of education policy sociology of education and educational practices and all researchers school leaders and policy makers working in this area
