Mainstreaming Men Into Gender And Development Debates Reflections And Experiences:

Mainstreaming Men Into Gender and Development Sylvia H. Chant, Matthew C. Gutmann, 2000 Based on research commissioned by the World Bank this book's primary focus is on incorporating men in gender and development interventions at the grass roots level. It draws attention to some of the key problems that have arisen from male exclusion as well as to the potential benefits of and obstacles to men's inclusion.

Mainstreaming Gender in Development Fenella Porter, Caroline Sweetman, 2005 Articles discuss how gender mainstreaming has been understood in different organisations provide examples of good work which supports the empowerment of women and look beyond gender mainstreaming to what new possibilities exist for transformation.

Senegal Robin Sharp, 1994 Up to date view of Senegal from the perspective of the poor Feminisms in Development Andrea Cornwall, Elizabeth Harrison, Ann Whitehead, 2013-07-04 This collection of essays by leading feminist thinkers from North and South constitutes a major new attempt to reposition feminism within development studies. Feminism's emphasis on social transformation makes it fundamental to development studies. Yet the relationship between the two disciplines has frequently been a troubled one. At present the way in which many development institutions function often undermines feminist intent through bureaucratic structures and unequal power quotients. Moreover the seeming intractability of inequalities and injustice in developing countries have presented feminists with some enormous challenges. Here emphasizing the importance of a plurality of approaches the authors argue for the importance of what feminisms have to say to development. Confronting the enormous challenges for feminisms in development studies this book provides real hope for dialogue and exchange between feminisms and development.

Women and Gender Equity in Development Theory and Practice Jane S. Jaquette, Gale Summerfield, 2006-03-27 Collection of essays on issues of women and development attempting to bridge theory and practice in the post 9/11 era to reflect debates in various realms from the environment land rights and identity to information technology employment and poverty.

Masculinities and Femininities in Latin America's Uneven Development Susan Paulson, 2015-08-20 This book forges a new approach to historical and geographical change by asking how gender arrangements and dynamics influence the evolution of institutions and environments. This new theoretical approach is applied via mixed methods and a multi scale framework to bring together unusually diverse phenomena. Regional trends demonstrated with quantitative data include the massive incorporation of women into paid work demographic masculinization of the countryside and feminization of cities rapidly increasing gaps that favor women over men in education and life expectancy and extraordinarily high levels of violence against men. Case studies in Mexico Chile and Bolivia explore changes influenced by gender practices and expectations that involve men in different ways than women they also highlight dissimilarities and power relations between differently positioned masculine groups. Ethnographic studies of culturally diverse arrangements together with particular attention to subordinate versus dominant masculinities complicate the gender binaries that circumscribe so much research and policy. Drawing attention to imbalances and conflicts generated by inappropriate models and uneven developments the book points to opportunities for experimenting with and adapting the sociocultural institutions that govern relations among humans and between humans and their environment

Men and Development, 2012-09-13 A wide ranging volume featuring contributions from some of today's leading thinkers and practitioners in the field of men masculinities and development Together contributors challenge the neglect of the structural dimensions of patriarchal power relations in current development policy and practice and the failure to adequately engage with the effects of inequitable sex and gender orders on both men's and women's lives The book calls for renewed engagement in efforts to challenge and change stereotypes of men to dismantle the structural barriers to gender equality and to mobilize men to build new alliances with women's movements and other movements for social and gender justice

Mind the Gap Nazneen Kanji, 2003 Mainstreaming Politics Carol Lee Bacchi, Joan Eveline, 2010 This book offers an innovative rethinking of policy approaches to gender equality and of the process of social change It brings several new chapters together with a series of previously published articles to reflect on these topics A particular focus is gender mainstreaming a relatively recent development in equality policy in many industrialised and some industrialising countries as well as in large international organisations such as the World Bank the

International Monetary Fund and the International Labour Organization The book draws upon poststructuralist organisation and policy theory to argue that it is impossible to script reform initiatives such as gender mainstreaming As an alternative it recommends thinking about such policy developments as fields of contestation shaped by on the ground political deliberations and practices including the discursive practices that produce specific ways of understanding the problem of gender inequality In addition to the new chapters the editors Bacchi and Eveline produce brief introductions for each chapter tracing the development of their ideas over four years Through these commentaries the book provides exciting insights into the complex processes of collaboration and theory generation Mainstreaming Politics is a rich resource for both practitioners in the field and for theorists In particular it will appeal to those interested in public policy public administration organisation studies sociology comparative politics and international studies

African Masculinities L. Ouzgane, R. Morrell, 2005-03-15 While masculinity studies enjoys considerable growth in the West there is very little analysis of African masculinities This volume explores what it means for an African to be masculine and how male identity is shaped by cultural forces The editors believe that to tackle the important questions in Africa the many forms of violence wars genocides familial violence and crime and the AIDS pandemic it is necessary to understand how a combination of a colonial past patriarchal cultural structures and a variety of religious and knowledge systems creates masculine identities and
