Hartley, G. Blondeau, 1974 The Rules of Time R. A. York, 1999 This is a study of those aspects of the novel that contribute to the pace and rhythm of reading It claims that those aspects contribute much to the significance of literature because the rhythm of the work becomes an image of the way that time is perceived and the reader's perception of time is profoundly connected with his or her moral sense and feeling of well being In some authors the passage of time is meticulously plotted and reproduced in the sequence of the text in others it is confused and complicated by elisions by disruption of sequence by eccentric or elusive proportion of narrative to the lapse of time by the author's varying distance from the characters and the events they undergo But in all of them time is conspicuous Twentieth century fiction presents itself as a way of coming to terms with the mystery and disquiet we feel when we try to say what time means to us The

Go-between Neil McEwan, 1980 Waiting for the End Earl G. Ingersoll, 2007 Waiting for the End examines two dozen contemporary novels within the context of a half century of theorizing about the function of ending in narrative That theorizing about ending generated a powerful dynamic a quarter century ago with the advent of feminist criticism of masculinist readings of the role played by ending in fiction Feminists such as Theresa de Lauretis in 1984 and more famously Susan Winnett in her 1991 PMLA essay Coming Unstrung were leading voices in a swelling chorus of theorist pointing out the masculinist bias of ending in narrative With the entry of feminist readings of ending it became inevitable that criticism of fiction would become gendered through the recognition of difference transcending a simple binary of female male to establish a spectrum of masculine to feminine endings regardless of the sex of the writer Accordingly Waiting for the End examines pairs of novels one pair by Margaret Atwood and one by Ian McEwan to demonstrate how a writer can offer endings at either end of the gender spectrum

British rural landscapes on film offers insights into how rural areas in Britain have been represented on film from the silent era through both world wars and on into the twenty first century It is the first book to exclusively deal with representations of the British countryside on film The contributors demonstrate that the countryside has provided Britain and its constituent nations and regions with a dense range of spaces in which cultural identities have been and continue to be worked through British rural landscapes on film demonstrates that British cinema provides numerous examples of how national identity and the identity of the countryside have been partly constructed through filmic representation and how British rural films can allow us to further understand the relationship between the cultural identities of specific areas of Britain and the landscapes they inhabit Unknown Masterpieces Edwin Frank,2003-07-31

Gale,2021-02-16 While best known as one of the most important playwrights of the twentieth century Harold Pinter 1930 2008 had an equally successful career writing screenplays His collaborations with director Joseph Losey garnered great attention and esteem and two of his screenplays earned Academy Award nominations The French Lieutenant s Woman 1981 and Betrayal 1983 He is also credited for writing an unproduced script to remake Stanley Kubrick s 1962 adaptation of Lolita Much scholarship has been dedicated to the subject of Pinter as playwright but the rich landscape of his work in film has been left largely undisturbed In Sharp Cut Harold Pinter's Screenplays and the Artistic Process Steven H Gale the world's foremost Pinter scholar analyzes Pinter's creative process from initial conception to finished film Gale makes careful point by point comparisons of each stage in the screenplay's creation the source material the adaptations themselves and the films made from the scripts in order to reveal the meaning behind each film script and to explain the cinematic techniques used to express that meaning Unlike most Pinter scholars who focus almost solely on the written word Gale devotes discussion to the cinematic interpretation of the scripts through camera angles and movement cutting and other techniques Pinter does not merely convert his stage scripts to screenplays he adapts the works to succeed in the other medium avoiding elements of the live play that do not work onscreen and using the camera's focusing operations in ways that are not possible on the stage As Pinter's career progressed and his writing evolved screenplays became for him an increasingly vital means of creative expression Sharp Cut is the first study to fully explore this important component of the Pinter canon
