Mathematics Education Jacqueline Dewar,Pao-sheng Hsu,Harriet Pollatsek,2016-11-26 Many in the mathematics community in the U S are involved in mathematics education in various capacities This book highlights the breadth of the work in K 16 mathematics education done by members of US departments of mathematical sciences It contains contributions by mathematicians and mathematics educators who do work in areas such as teacher education quantitative literacy informal education writing and communication social justice outreach and mentoring tactile learning art and mathematics ethnomathematics scholarship of teaching and learning and mathematics education research Contributors describe their work its impact and how it is perceived and valued In addition there is a chapter co authored by two mathematicians who have become administrators on the challenges of supporting evaluating and rewarding work in mathematics education in departments of mathematical sciences This book is intended to inform the readership of the breadth of the work and to encourage discussion of its value in the mathematical community The writing is expository not technical and should be accessible and informative to a diverse audience The primary readership includes all those in departments of mathematical sciences in two or four year colleges and universities and their administrators as well as graduate students Researchers in education may also find topics of interest Other potential readers include those doing work in mathematics education in schools of education and teachers of secondary or middle school mathematics as well as those involved in their professional development      Integration Interrupted Karolyn Tyson,2011-02-21 An all too popular explanation for why black students aren t doing better in school is their own use of the acting white slur to ridicule fellow blacks for taking advanced classes doing schoolwork and striving to earn high grades Carefully reconsidering how and why black students have come to equate school success with whiteness Integration Interrupted argues that when students understand race to be connected with achievement it is a powerful lesson conveyed by schools not their peers Drawing on over ten years of ethnographic research Karolyn Tyson shows how equating school success with acting white arose in the aftermath of Brown v Board of Education through the practice of curriculum tracking which separates students for instruction ostensibly by ability and prior achievement Only in very specific circumstances when black students are drastically underrepresented in advanced and gifted classes do anxieties about the burden of acting white emerge Racialized tracking continues to define the typical American secondary school but it goes unremarked except by the young people who experience its costs and consequences daily The rich narratives in Integration Interrupted throw light on the complex relationships underlying school behaviors and convincingly demonstrate that the problem lies not with students but instead with how we organize our schools College of Engineering University of Michigan. College of Engineering,1990      The American Mathematical Monthly ,1969
