Horse Mobilization War Office, 2015-12-15 Reprinted for the Army Review October 1913 this facsimile offers an insight into the general requirements of military horses at a time of war and how the British Army would go about getting the numbers of horses required for complete mobilisation The Impressment of Horses and Horse Drawn Vehicles in Time of National Emergency War Office, 2015-12-15 This book provides a detailed explanation of how the British Army went about acquiring the horses and horse drawn vehicles required at a time of national emergency Notes on Horse Management (Pts 1 And 2) War Office, 2015-12-15 It was important during a time of national emergency that the horses mobilized for military purposes were kept as fit and useful as possible keeping accidents and illness to a minimum This pocket guide is a useful reference source for all staff working with horses giving information on feeding and grooming to detecting skin diseases and inspecting shoes Black & White ,1900 Notes on the French Horse-Breeding and Remount Organization War Office, 2015-12-15 First issued in May 1914 this book details the importance of horses during the Great War not only in Britain but within the Entente Powers such as France Written during a visit to France it looks at the efficiency of France s Ministry of Agriculture in the breeding and purchase to meet requirements Notes on Horse Management in the Field (1919) War Office, 2015-12-15 The War Office Publications WWI series are reproductions from a number of contemporary manuals and books covering First World War doctrine These documents provide an insight into the daily lives of soldiers as well as details of how the conflict was fought They also help to dispel the myth that the First World War was fought on a basis of tactical and organisational mismanagement The Road to Armageddon Cecil D. Eby, 1987 The Lost Generation has held the imagination of those who succeeded them partly because the idea that modern war could be romantic generous and noble died with the casualties of that war From this remove it seems almost perverse that Britons Germans and Frenchmen of every social class eagerly rushed to the fields of Flanders and to misery and death In The Road to Armageddon Cecil Eby shows how the widely admired writers of English popular fiction and poetry contributed at least in England to a romantic militarism coupled with xenophobia that helped create the climate that made World War I seem almost inevitable Between the close of the Franco Prussian War of 1871 and the opening guns of 1914 the works of such widely read and admired writers as H G Wells Rudyard Kipling J M Barrie and Rupert Brooke as well as a host of now almost forgotten contemporaries bombarded their avid readers with strident warnings of imminent invasions and prophecies of the collapse of civilization under barbarian onslaught and internal moral collapse Eby seems these narratives as growing from and in turn fueling a collective neurosis in which dread of coming war coexisted with an almost loving infatuation with it The author presents a vivid panorama of a militant milieu in which warfare on a scale hitherto unimaginable was largely coaxed into being by works of literary imagination The role of covert propaganda concealed in seemingly harmless literary texts is memorably illustrated Commercial West ,1914 Collier's ,1913 Types of Horses Suitable for Army Remounts War
