O'Toole,2018-12-04 The face of autism is changing And more often than we realize that face is wearing lipstick Autism in Heels an intimate memoir reveals the woman inside one of autism s most prominent figures Jennifer O Toole At the age of thirty five Jennifer was diagnosed with Asperger s syndrome and for the first time in her life things made sense Now Jennifer exposes the constant struggle between carefully crafted persona and authentic existence editing the autism script with wit candor passion and power Her journey is one of reverse self discovery not only as an Aspie but more importantly as a thoroughly modern woman Beyond being a memoir Autism in Heels is a love letter to all women It s a conversation starter A game changer And a firsthand account of what it is to walk in Jennifer s shoes especially those iconic red stilettos Whether it s bad perms or body image sexuality or self esteem Jennifer s is as much a human journey as one on the spectrum Because autism looks a bit different in pink most girls and women who fit the profile are not identified facing years of avoidable anxiety eating disorders volatile relationships self harm and stunted independence Jennifer has been there too Autism in Heels takes that message to the mainstream From her own struggles and self discovery she has built an empire of empowerment inspiring women the world over to realize they aren't mistakes They are misunderstood miracles     Colossal Book of Mathematics Martin Gardner, 2001 No amateur or math authority can be without this ultimate compendium of classic puzzles paradoxes and puzzles from America's best loved mathematical expert 320 line drawings     Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1962 Includes Part 1 Number 1 Books and Pamphlets Including Serials and Contributions to Periodicals January-June     Four Colors Suffice Robin Wilson, 2021-10-12 On October 23 1852 Professor Augustus De Morgan wrote a letter to a colleague unaware that he was launching one of the most famous mathematical conundrums in history one that would confound thousands of puzzlers for more than a century This is the amazing story of how the map problem was solved The problem posed in the letter came from a former student What is the least possible number of colors needed to fill in any map real or invented so that neighboring counties are always colored differently This deceptively simple question was of minimal interest to cartographers who saw little need to limit how many colors they used But the problem set off a frenzy among professional mathematicians and amateur problem solvers among them Lewis Carroll an astronomer a botanist an obsessive golfer the Bishop of London a man who set his watch only once a year a California traffic cop and a bridegroom who spent his honeymoon coloring maps In their pursuit of the solution mathematicians painted maps on doughnuts and horseshoes and played with patterned soccer balls and the great rhombicuboctahedron It would be more than one hundred years and countless colored maps later before the result was finally established Even then difficult questions remained and the intricate solution which involved no fewer than 1 200 hours of computer time was greeted with as much dismay as enthusiasm Providing a clear and elegant explanation of the problem and the proof Robin Wilson tells how a seemingly innocuous question baffled great minds and stimulated exciting mathematics with far flung applications This is the entertaining story of those who failed to prove and those who ultimately did prove that four colors do indeed suffice to color any map This new edition features many color illustrations It also includes a new foreword by Ian Stewart on the importance of the map problem and how it was solved     An Anthropology of Puzzles Marcel Danesi, 2020-05-15 An Anthropology of Puzzles argues that the human brain is a puzzling organ which allows humans to literally solve their own problems of existence through puzzle format Noting the presence of puzzles everywhere in everyday life Marcel Danesi looks at puzzles in society since the dawn of history showing how their presence has guided large sections of human history from discoveries in mathematics to disquisitions in philosophy Danesi examines the cognitive processes that are involved in puzzle making and solving and connects them to the actual physical manifestations of classic puzzles Building on a concept of puzzles as based on Jungian archetypes such as the river crossing image the path metaphor and the journey Danesi suggests this could be one way to understand the public fascination with puzzles As well as drawing on underlying mental archetypes the act of solving puzzles also provides an outlet to move beyond biological evolution and Danesi shows that puzzles could be the product of the same basic neural mechanism that produces language and culture Finally Danesi explores how understanding puzzles can be a new way of understanding our human culture
