created by players themselves Halo's unique and extraordinary features raise serious questions Are campers really doing anything wrong Does Halo's music match the experience of the gamer Would Plato have used Halo to train citizens to live an ethical life What sort of Artificial Intelligence exists in Halo and how is it used Can the player's experience of war tell us anything about actual war Is there meaning to Master Chief's rough existence How does it affect the player's ego if she identifies too strongly with an aggressive character like Master Chief Is Halo really science fiction Can Halo be used for enlightenment oriented thinking in the Buddhist sense Does Halo's weapon limitation actually contribute to the depth of the gameplay When we willingly play Halo only to die again and again are we engaging in some sort of self injurious behavior What is expansive gameplay and how can it be informed by the philosophy of Michel Foucault In what way does Halo's post apocalyptic paradigm force gamers to see themselves as agents of divine deliverance What can Red vs Blue teach us about personal identity These questions are tackled by writers who are both Halo cognoscenti and active philosophers with a foreword by renowned Halo fiction author Fred Van Lente and an afterword by leading games scholar and artist Roger Ngim
