Today We're Alive Linden Wilkinson, 2016-04-26 By 1888 after 100 years of colonisation it is estimated that 95% of the Australian Aboriginal and Torres Strait islander population had disappeared Along with starvation disease dispossession and grief a further contributing factor to this decline was murder Massacres occurred sequentially as the line of first contact forged its way across a country that had been occupied cared for and loved for over 50 000 years by about 250 separate Aboriginal nations The concomitant brutality subsumed in the colonial narrative of zeal purpose and prosperity meant that massacres were shrouded in silence for generations denied ignored and under reported However one particular massacre remains an anomaly The massacre at Myall Creek occurred on June 10th 1838 in the fading light of a wintry Sunday afternoon It was perpetrated by eleven convicts under the leadership of one free born squatter s son they had hunted blacks together before They tethered twenty eight old men women and children Weraera people of the Kamilaroi nation led them away from their camp and then systematically butchered them all These details are available because this particular massacre went to trial One hundred and sixty two years later a group of Aboriginal and non

Aboriginal people formed a committee and built a memorial to commemorate the only massacre in Australia's colonial history where some but not all of the perpetrators were punished Today We re Alive Generating Performance in a Cross Cultural Context an Australian Experience is a doctoral thesis which examines the multiple narratives embedded in colonial and recent history At the heart of this research is a verbatim play the interweaving of Aboriginal and non Aboriginal testimonies about Myall Creek and the memorial testimonies sourced from descendants of massacre survivors descendants of massacre perpetrators and involved others As a thesis it explores the possibilities offered by performance ethnography as a decolonizing methodology as a play the research seeks to find a reconciliation narrative a story that through performance addresses the past and recognises the possibilities of a shared future
