Fujita, Jacques-François Thisse, 2013-07-31 Economic activities are not concentrated on the head of a pin nor are they spread evenly over a featureless plane On the contrary they are distributed very unequally across locations regions and countries Even though economic activities are to some extent spatially concentrated because of natural features economic mechanisms that rely on the trade off between various forms of increasing returns and different types of mobility costs are more fundamental This book is a study of the economic reasons for the existence of a large variety of agglomerations arising from the global to the local This second edition combines a comprehensive analysis of the fundamentals of spatial economics and an in depth discussion of the most recent theoretical developments in new economic geography and urban economics It aims to highlight several of the major economic trends observed in modern societies The first edition was the winner of the 2004 William Alonso Memorial Prize for Innovative Work in Regional Science Regions, Cities and the Circular Economy

Sébastien Bourdin, André Torre, Eveline van Leeuwen, 2024-12-09 This timely book presents a theoretical and practical reflection on the circular economy and its potential to reduce reuse and recycle for the world of tomorrow Investigating how to avoid resource depletion it provides an in depth study into how cities and regions have engaged with this concept in an effort to enhance resource efficiency and minimise environmental damage Evolutionary Economic Geography Dieter Kogler, 2017-10-02 Economic geographers increasingly consider the significance of history in shaping the contemporary socio economic landscape and increasingly believe that experiences and competencies acquired over time by individuals and entities in particular localities to a large degree determine present configurations as well as future regional trajectories Attempts to trace understand and investigate the pathways from past to present have given rise to the thriving and exciting sub field of Evolutionary Economic Geography EEG EEG highlights the important factors that initiate inhibit or consolidate the contextual settings and relationships in which regions and their respective agents which comprise and shape economic activity and social reproduction change over time It has at its core the production and destruction of novelty in space and the links between innovation and regional economic fortunes The creation of knowledge its movement and recombination within different regional ensembles of economic agents and institutions plays a critical role in the evolution of the space economy EEG provides a framework to disentangle the complexity of technological change and regional economic development based on a variety of theoretical and methodological approaches In only a short time EEG has established itself as a promising and rapidly evolving research framework with its focus on the driving forces of regional development across various scales and its attempt to translate findings into public policy This book advances the theoretical foundations of EEG and demonstrates how EEG utilises and operationalises conceptual frameworks both established and new Contributions also point to future research avenues and extensions of EEG attempting to build stronger ties between theory empirical evidence and relevance to policy This book was originally published as a special issue of Regional Studies

Location, Transport and Land-Use Yupo Chan, 2005-12-05 1 Theme and focus Few books are available to integrate the models for facilities siting transportation and land use Employing state of the art quantitative models and case studies this book would guide the siting of such facilities as transportation terminals warehouses nuclear power plants military bases landfills emergency shelters state parks and industrial plants The book also shows the use of statistical tools for forecasting and analyzing implications of land use decisions The idea is that la use on a map is necessarily a consequence of individual and often conflicting siting decisions over time Since facilities often develop to form a community these decisions are interrelated spatially i e they need to be accessible to one another via the transportation system It is our thesis that a common methodological procedure exists to analyze all these spatial temporal constructs While there are several monographs and texts on subjects related to this book s this volume is unique in that it integrates existing practical and theoretical works on facility location transportation and land use Instead of dealing with individual facility location transportation or the resulting land use pattern individually it provides the underlying principles that are behind these types of models Particularly of interest is the emphasis on counter intuitive decisions that often escape our minds unless deliberate steps of analysis are taken Oriented toward the fundamental principles of infrastructure management the book transcends the traditional engineering and planning disciplines where the main concerns are often exclusively either physical design fiscal socioeconomic or political considerations
