SKORPION - INSTRUCTION MANUAL

GENERAL DESCRIPTION AND TERMINOLOGY

The names of basic parts of the submachine gun used in this instruction manual are presented in Fig. 1 on the inner side of the attached cover. The correspondence of all parts of the firearm is presented in the section illustration and list of parts.

Under the features of this instruction manual when reading it, in order to be able to see all the illustrations printed on the inside of the cover.

The Skorpion submachine gun is a general purpose, light and automatic firearm for individuals. This firearm can be fired either in fully automatic, or in semi-automatic mode of fire. The Skorpion has a simple folding (retractable) stock, thus enabling shooting from shoulder, if the stock is folded (retracted), then the submachine gun can be fired hand-held in submachine or fully automatic modes of fire. The effective range of fire from the shoulder is up to 100 m, hand-held up to 50 m. Its very light weight and small dimensions, allow the concealed carry and use of the submachine gun in very restricted spaces.

The Skorpion is equipped with a rate reducer used to lower the cyclic rate of fire, this device also allows fast reset, and enables the weapon after each shot. The safety-selector lever features three positions: "1" - semiautomatic fire, "2" - fully automatic fire, and "3" - "Safety-Off" mode.

The magazine, are of double column type with a double column feed. The Skorpion controls with an "off" and "on" magazine (see Technical Specifications for their respective capacity). The lock which locked open when the last cartridge from the magazine has been fired.

Consequently for clearing and unjamming purposes of the Skorpion does not require the use of any tools.

TECHNICAL SPECIFICATIONS, CAUSES AND REMEDIES

If your submachine gun is properly used and maintained, malfunctions are caused minor. However, if such a situation should occur, please consult the following instructions.

1. Malfunction - Check a submachine gun for the condition of individual

SKORPION - INSTRUCTION MANUAL

OPERATING AND Firing Rules

Ammunition

Use only factory manufactured standard ammunition of an appropriate caliber, which is in compliance with CPT regulations (International Proof Commission for Firearms in Europe). (Firing rules and ammunition manufacturers indicate the use of the correct firearm). The use of other cartridges could damage the firearm or cause malfunctions or injury to the shooter.

Extending of Shoulder Stock

Hold the submachine gun by the grip as if shooting and push back the reared part of the shoulder stock located beneath the barrel (Fig. 2) from below. Then grasp the shoulder stock and move backwards to its extended position.

Retracting of Shoulder Stock

Firmly hold the submachine gun's magazine in the left hand. Using your other hand, while grasping the "connector", push the forward part of the left shoulder stock forward and close to the shoulder stock area of rotation its position - (Fig. 3). After sufficient pressure, rotate the shoulder stock upwards and forward until it catches with the front sight protection capsule.

Removal of the Magazine

Hold the submachine gun with the right hand by its grip and grasp the magazine by the other (clamped that magazine latch with the left hand thumb (Fig. 4)) and with a simultaneous downward motion, remove the magazine.

Magazine Loading

With the right and left hand, grasp the magazine in one hand. Place a cartridge on the magazine follower with the cartridge head placed against the rear wall of the magazine. Press the cartridge down until it is inserted under the magazine lip. Place the next cartridge on top of the previous cartridge and load it in the same manner (Fig. 5).

The number of cartridges loaded can be checked by means of the magazine tube to the rear wall of the magazine.

Do not try to exceed the magazine capacity - doing so can cause a feed failure.

Submachine Gun Loading

CAUTION

Always hold the submachine gun in a safe direction when loading.

Insert a loaded magazine and ensure that it has engaged the magazine catch.

SKORPION - INSTRUCTION MANUAL

Overcharge the submachine gun safety by rotating the safety-selector lever either to position "1" or to position "2". The submachine gun will be ready to fire in position "1" or "2" (semi-automatic fire).

Hold the submachine gun by the grip with one hand, and with the thumb and index finger of the other hand the left locking bracket located on both sides of the receiver. Rotate the bolt fully to its rear and then place it to the rear (Fig. 6). This procedure loads the hammer, and inserts a cartridge into the chamber. The submachine gun is now ready to fire. If you do not intend to fire immediately, ensure the submachine gun's safety by setting the safety-selector lever to position "3".

Semiautomatic Fire

Semiautomatic fire can be stopped after pulling the safety-selector lever to its "off" position, i.e. downwards after rotating the trigger a single cartridge is discharged. The last cartridge is fired after the trigger is released and pressed again.

Automatic Fire

For fully automatic fire, it is necessary to change the safety-selector lever to "2" i.e. upwards. If the submachine gun is loaded, and the magazine feeds a sufficient number of cartridges, then firing can be initiated at any time by pulling the trigger, and immediately by releasing the trigger. The length of the burst depends on how long the trigger is depressed, and can be from 2 cartridges up to the full capacity of the magazine.

Reloading During Shooting

When the last cartridge has been fired, the bolt stops in its rear locked open position. Remove the empty magazine and replace it with a loaded one. Perfectly rotate the lock, and release it to swing forward. The submachine gun is loaded again, and ready to fire.

Unloading the Submachine Gun

Always hold the submachine gun in a safe direction when unloading.

1. Remove the magazine.
2. Unload the submachine gun safety (rotate the safety-selector lever to position "3" or "off").
3. Remove the bolt and verify that the cartridge chamber is empty. (The last open closed bolt can be depressed, after pulling the bolt head, and then released to hold the bolt in its forward open position. This emptying operation of the empty cartridge chamber is another point.)
4. Release the trigger.
5. Depress the trigger (Fig. 7).
