Technology of Empire Daqing Yang,2011-04-18 Nearly half a century ago the economic historian Harold Innis pointed out that the geographical limits of empires were determined by communications and that historically advances in the technologies of transport and communications have enabled empires to grow This power of communications was demonstrated when Japanese Emperor Hirohito's radio speech announcing Japan's surrender and the dissolution of its empire was broadcast simultaneously throughout not only the Japanese home islands but also all the territories under its control over the telecommunications system that had in part made that empire possible In the extension of the Japanese empire in the 1930s and 1940s technology geo strategy and institutions were closely intertwined in empire building The central argument of this study of the development of a communications network linking the far flung parts of the Japanese imperium is that modern telecommunications not only served to connect these territories but more important made it possible for the Japanese to envision an integrated empire in Asia Even as the imperial communications network served to foster integration and strengthened Japanese leadership and control its creation and operation exacerbated long standing tensions and created new conflicts within the government the military and society in general

The Hand Gun Story John Walter,2008-06-30 A firearms expert traces the history of the one hand gun from its 14th century origins surveying changing technology techniques and design Midwest Book Review Ideally suited for both attack and self defense handguns have gotten smaller and deadlier But the earliest pistols had a tendency to misfire This was cured by the cap lock which proved a massive success in the American Civil War with hundreds of thousands of cap lock revolvers used on each side Self contained metal case cartridges were to bring a fundamental change to handgun design not only by allowing the introduction of revolvers that ejected automatically or were easily reloaded but also by paving the way for the automatic pistol World War I provided the handgun with a proving ground At the end of the hostilities with so much surplus weaponry work on the handgun could have ceased instead a new developmental phase was begun by the nations that had emerged from the crumbling Imperial empires During World War II the efficiency of well established designs was confirmed and new designs such as the Walther P 38 showed their potential The emergence of the submachine gun in 1945 reduced the status of the handgun but only temporarily The need for efficient self defense shows no signs of lessening and the rise in shooting for sport particularly with the revolver has sharpened the quest for efficiency The never ending search for advanced production techniques shows that the handgun has as much a future in the twenty first century as it had in the heyday of the Wild West or in the trenches of Passchendaele The Electrical Review ,1912 the order of their composition and in the text in which they were first published giving a unique insight into the origins and development of Browning s art Annotations and headnotes in keeping with the traditions of Longman Annotated English Poets are full and informative and provide details of composition publication sources and contemporary reception Volumes the period of his marriage to Elizabeth Barrett and residence in Italy Volume four 1862 71 deals with the decade following Elizabeth s death and Browning s return to England These years saw the appearance of some of his most significant work and a steady rise in his critical reputation In Dramatis Personae 1864 Browning uses his characteristic dramatic mode to
