The Material of World History Tina Mai Chen, David S. Churchill, 2015-03-27 This volume considers the confluence of World History and historical materialism with the following guiding question in mind given developments in the field of historical materialism concerned with the intersection of race gender labour and class why is it that within the field of World History historical materialism has been marginalized precisely as World History orients toward transnational socio cultural phenomenon micro studies or global histories of networks Answering this question requires thinking in an inter related manner about both the development of World History as a discipline and the place of economic determinism in historical materialism This book takes the position that historical materialism as applied to the field of World History needs to be more open to the methodological diversity of the materialist tradition and to refuse narrowly deterministic frameworks that have led to marginalization of materialist cultural analysis in studies of global capitalism At the same time World History needs to be more self critical of the methodological diversity it has welcomed through a largely inclusionary framework that allows the material to be considered separately from cultural social and intellectual dimensions of global processes

Eichbauer,2023-05-04 The period covered by this volume roughly 800 1400 considers genocidal massacres and actions within the context of the pre modern state a time when the term genocide did not yet exist In considering rhetoric discrimination and political and legal marginalization that impacted the lives of particular peoples the volume takes as its premise that genocidal practices and massacres can occur when social dynamism and political change challenges the identity of a community The case studies analysed in the individual chapters implicitly or explicitly draw upon the frameworks of comparative genocide scholars to explore genocidal massacres in the Middle Ages as localized phenomenon even if these isolated outbursts do not graph onto the modern definition of genocide perfectly Each contribution considers genocide as caused by settling national religious and ethnic differences genocide as designed to enforce or fulfil an ideology and genocide as designed to colonize Collectively the essays move beyond the number of people killed to consider the steps taken against a people to erase them from the social and cultural fabric of society It is hoped that this volume encourages us to think both about the legal structures of genocide but also about how the term can be more inclusive and expansive
