Community without Borders: Scots Migrants and the Changing Face of Power in the Dutch Republic, c. 1600-1700 Douglas Catterall, 2021-10-25 This is a valuable book for anyone interested in the cultural meaning of preindustrial migration Arguing that early modern European migrants could fundamentally influence their fate and their adopted communities it explores the world of Scots migrants to the Dutch port of Rotterdam c 1600 1700 The heart of the study is a reconstruction of the social networks that Scots used to establish and sustain themselves in Rotterdam drawn from unusually rich narrative sources Through their social ties Scots also told stories and kept memories as they created complex identities encompassing Rotterdam Scotland and places further afield By shaping their relationships to Rotterdam Scots had a broad impact on their adopted home Their actions helped change Rotterdam s political religious and legal fabric and even tied Rotterdam to the wider Atlantic world Nineteenth-Century Crime and Punishment Victor Bailey, 2022-07-30 This four volume collection looks at the essential issues concerning crime and punishment in the long nineteenth century Through the presentation of primary source documents it explores the development of a modern pattern of crime and a modern system of penal policy and practice illustrating the shift from eighteenth century patterns of crime including the clash between rural custom and law and punishment unsystematic selective public and body centred to nineteenth century patterns of crime urban increasing and a metaphor for social instability and moral decay before a remarkable late century crime decline and punishment reform minded soul centred penetrative uniform and private in application The first two volumes focus on crime itself and illustrate the role of the criminal courts the rise and fall of crime the causes of crime as understood by contemporary investigators the police ways of knowing the criminal the role of moral panics and the definition of the criminal classes and habitual offenders The final two volumes explore means of punishment and look at the shift from public and bodily punishments to transportation the rise of the penitentiary the convict prison system and the late century decline in the prison population and loss of faith in the prison Beyond Punishment: Achieving International Criminal Justice M. H. MacCormack, 1999-09-30 Since World War II For Younger Readers, 2014 Talking Book Topics, 2015 Sentencing and the Legitimacy of Trial Justice Ralph Henham, 2013-03-01 This book discusses the under researched relationship between sentencing and the legitimacy of punishment It argues that there is an increasing gap between what is perceived as legitimate punishment and the sentencing decisions of the criminal courts Drawing on a wide variety of empirical research evidence the book explores how sentencing could be developed within a more socially inclusive framework for the delivery of trial justice In the international context such developments are directly relevant to the future role of the International Criminal Court especially its ability to deliver more coherent and inclusive trial outcomes that contribute to social reconstruction Similarly in the national context these issues have a vital role to play in helping to re position trial justice as a credible cornerstone of criminal justice governance where social diversity persists In so doing the book should help policy makers in appreciating the likely implications for criminal trials of mainstreaming restorative forms of justice Sentencing and the Legitimacy of Trial Justice firmly ties the issue of legitimacy to the relevant context for delivering justice It suggests a need to develop the tools and methods for achieving this and offers some novel solutions to this complex problem This book will be a valuable resource for graduate students academics practitioners and policy makers in the field of criminal justice as well as scholars interested in socio legal and cross disciplinary approaches to the analysis of criminal process and sentencing and the development of theory and comparative methodology in this area which different states studied each other and their institutions and the ways in which different reformers exchanged ideas and investigated policing and penal experiments in other countries It also explores the theoretical issues underpinning recent research emphasising that the changes in ideas on crime and criminals were neither linear nor circular and demonstrating clearly that many ideas hailed as new by contemporary politicians and in current debate on crime and its solutions have a very long and illustrious history Law and Revolution Harold J.
