

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 women, 40 to 50 years old, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular disease. They were randomly assigned to a 12-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes, of low-intensity aerobic exercise. The control group continued with their sedentary lifestyle. The HR and EE were measured at baseline and at the end of the 12-week program. The results showed that the training program significantly increased the HR and EE of the subjects compared to the control group. The HR increased from 68 to 72 beats per minute, and the EE increased from 1,200 to 1,400 kcal per day. These findings suggest that a 12-week training program can effectively improve the cardiovascular fitness and energy expenditure of sedentary, middle-aged women.
