Most small and medium sized businesses rush into the implementation of ITIL framework because an essential analytic planning was not or ineffectually done. The dependences and coherences between the Service Strategy, Service Design, Service Transition, Service Operation as well as Continual Service Improvement allege how to efficiently implement the holistic ITIL framework. Based on a survey of SMBs' experiences and level of organisational maturity, this information gets combined and framed in an implementation plan in due consideration of all coherences and dependencies to assure optimum quality of implementation. With such a plan, SMBs are in a position to generate as much as possible achievement compared with an adequate scale of effort. SMB has also the assurance that only the appropriate parts of ITIL framework are affected for its System or Service Management approach. The chain of causation starts with a summary of all five ITIL lifecycle stages and its interfaces, next to a survey of SMBs' experiences with such a framework and level of organisational maturity. It ends with an implementation plan based on the participants' statements and adequate project management methods for definition of objectives, pinpointing of dependencies, object and work breakdown structures, and environment analysis. My major conclusion of this master thesis is that cost saving characteristics of ITIL framework do not appear by ITIL framework implementation. They appear in case of consistent application.
