Sustainable School Transformation David Crossley, 2013-10-30 Sustainable School Transformation An Inside Out School Led Approach explores how we can best build a truly world class education system It presents a theoretical and practical case for an alternative approach that combines the rigour of traditional top down accountability models with the engagement and buy in of school led inside out approaches a combination which can be applied to any school in any context internationally David Crossley and a range of practitioners and academics draw on their extensive experience of past approaches to school improvement in the UK and US Rather than reject top down accountability models they explore new ways of developing them alongside inside out school led approaches that really do motivate those in our schools who in the final analysis have to deliver the aspirations of politicians and our wider societies for all our young people The book is based on the premise that Peter Drucker's notion of addictive achievement discussed in relation to students in Post Capitalist Society applies to staff and schools too and if we want to build a truly world class system it will only be achieved through the motivation and resultant efforts of all those in our schools

Strife and Progress Paul T. Hill, 2013 Deficient urban schooling remains one of America's most pressing and stubborn public policy problems This important new book details and evaluates a radical and promising new approach to K 12 education reform Strife and Progress explains for a broad audience the portfolio strategy for providing urban education its rationale implementation and results Under the portfolio strategy cities use anything that works indifferent to whether schools are run by the public district or private entities It combines traditional modes of schooling with newer methods including chartering and experimentation with schools making innovative use of people and technology Urban districts try to make themselves magnets for new talent recruiting educators and career switchers looking to make a difference for poor children The portfolio strategy creates interesting new bedfellows people who think that government should oversee public education align with those advocating choice competition and entrepreneurship It cuts across political lines and engages city governments and civic assets e g philanthropies businesses universities much more deeply than earlier reform initiatives New York and New Orleans were portfolio pioneers but the idea has spread rapidly to cities as far flung as Los Angeles Denver and Chicago Results have been mixed overall but generally positive in places that implemented the strategy most aggressively Reform leaders such as New York's Joel Klein have been overly optimistic however assuming that the strategy's merits would be so obvious that careful assessment would be unnecessary Serious policy evaluation is still needed NYO.

Pring,2013-05-07 Is there life after death for secondary education This book focuses upon the quality of learning Reform so called too often begins with qualifications examinations institutional provision paths of progression All those are very important but their value lies in the support they give to learners and their learning in its different forms One needs to start with the aims of education and then with what it means to learn practically theoretically morally and with the very many different needs of the learners That is what this book aims to do In so doing it will be both philosophical in analysis and empirical in example So much is happening from down below that goes unrecognised by policy makers But innovations too often get hampered by government interventions by a bureaucratic mentality and by failure to spread good practice The general argument of the book therefore will be illustrated throughout with detailed references to practical developments in schools colleges the third sector youth work independent training providers and professional bodies across several countries The book builds on Education for All which was based on 14 19 research into secondary education this book transcends the particularities of England and Wales and digs more deeply into those issues which are at the heart of educational controversy policy and practices and which survive the transience of political change and controversy The issues the aims of education standards of performance the consequent vision of learning the role of teachers progression from school to higher or further education and into employment the provision of such education and training and the control of education are by no means confined to the UK or to this day and age Pring identifies similar problems in other countries such as the USA Germany and France and indeed in the Greece of Plato and Aristotle and offers solutions with a comparative perspective It is a critical time Old patterns of education and its provision are less and less suitable for facing the twenty first century The patterns and modes of communication have changed radically in a few years and those changes are quickening in pace The economic context has been transformed affecting the skills and knowledge needed for employment The social world of young people raises fresh demands hopes and fears A global recession has affected young people disproportionately making quality of life and self fulfilment ever more difficult to attain In addressing learning and the learners first and foremost the book will argue for a wider vision of learning and a more varied pattern of provision Old structures must give way to new Flood Insurance Study United States.
