

John Muir

A detailed landscape painting showing a deep mountain valley. In the foreground, a river flows through a lush green meadow. The middle ground is filled with dense evergreen forests covering the valley floor and lower slopes. In the background, majestic mountains rise, their peaks partially shrouded in mist or low clouds. The sky is a pale, hazy blue. The overall style is characteristic of 19th-century landscape art, emphasizing the grandeur and beauty of the natural world.

Hall, 2016-04-08 In his study of Romantic naturalists and early environmentalists Dewey W Hall asserts that William Wordsworth and Ralph Waldo Emerson were transatlantic literary figures who were both influenced by the English naturalist Gilbert White In Part 1 Hall examines evidence that as Romantic naturalists interested in meteorology Wordsworth and Emerson engaged in proto environmental activity that drew attention to the potential consequences of the locomotive's incursion into Windermere and Concord In Part 2 Hall suggests that Wordsworth and Emerson shaped the early environmental movement through their work as poets turned naturalists arguing that Wordsworth influenced Octavia Hill's contribution to the founding of the United Kingdom's National Trust in 1895 while Emerson inspired John Muir to spearhead the United States National Parks movement in 1890 Hall's book traces the connection from White as a naturalist turned poet to Muir as the quintessential early environmental activist who camped in Yosemite with President Theodore Roosevelt Throughout Hall raises concerns about the growth of industrialization to make a persuasive case for literature's importance to the rise of environmentalism Queer Moderns Alice T. Friedman, 2025-05-27 A richly illustrated history of the glittering world of queer artistic life in the 1920s and 30s In Queer Moderns Alice Friedman tells the fascinating story of the queer avant garde of the 1920s and 30s in New York Paris and Venice as seen through the eyes of Max Ewing 1903 1934 a young musician photographer and man about town who although virtually unknown today moved in extraordinary circles In his photographs and letters we meet the rising stars of modern art music dance and literature and enter a world of interracial friendship queer space and experimentation that shone brightly before being swept away by the Depression It is a remarkable story that reveals that the history of modernism is more queer and more Black than previously recognized In the 1920s Ewing became part of an international coterie of artists led by Carl Van Vechten and Muriel Draper In Europe he was entertained by Gertrude Stein met Stravinsky and took a road trip with Romaine Brooks and Natalie Barney In 1928 in a closet in his apartment Ewing created the Gallery of Extraordinary Portraits an installation of photos of his favorite celebrities Black and white clothed and nude For his Carnival of Venice he took portraits of more than a hundred friends including Paul Robeson Berenice Abbott Isamu Noguchi Agnes de Mille and E E Cummings posed in front of a backdrop of Saint Mark s Square Like a character from a story by F Scott Fitzgerald Ewing joined the party and then died tragically unable to accept the end of his era or the lost dream of a new way of living His story sheds new light on modernism and an artistic milieu that was ahead of its time

Geographies of Travel Susan L. Roberson, 2025-05-01

Travel writing was the most popular genre of writing in the nineteenth century Initially published in newspapers and journals as dispatches from the road these works allowed readers to join in on fabulous adventures by becoming armchair tourists second hand voyeurs of the peoples and places the writer visited In order to take readers along on their journeys travel writers typically recorded miles covered and dates of travel in a log or diary They also documented key details of the experience itself describing the conditions of the road the people they met and their accommodations food and clothing The nineteenth century specifically offered a form of travel writing that commented on the ruined environment that ran afoul of the century s ethos of progress with voices such as Henry David Thoreau John Muir and John James Audubon exploring a newfound environmental consciousness Geographies of Travel is organized geographically by region with essays examining local journeys in the Northeast Midwest Far West and the South This regional arrangement allows readers to consider the geographic imagination of each region and the kinds of travel it invited as well as providing valuable insight on the ways in which Americans reacted to both natural and social regional landscapes Each region is treated chronologically so as to interrogate not only individual narratives but also the ways that travel tourism and modes of transportation evolved over time The work concludes with an examination of Henry James s The American Scene in a coda that brings together his astute observations of the Northeast and the South at the turn of the century Occasional interludes point to the ways that travel reverberates in the artistic work of some of the authors making connections between travel and the imagination
