The Ecumenical Movement & the Making of the European Community Lucian Leustean, 2014-07-31 The European Community has largely been considered a predominantly secular project bringing together the economic and political realms while failing to mobilise the public voice and imagination of churchmen and the faithful Drawing on a wide range of archival sources this is the first study to assess the political history of religious dialogue in the European Community It challenges the widespread perception that churches started to engage with European institutions only after the 1979 elections to the European Parliament by detailing close relations between churchmen and high ranking officials in European institutions immediately after the 1950 Schuman Declaration Lucian N Leustean demonstrates that Cold War divisions between East and West and the very nature of the ecumenical movement had a direct impact on the ways in which churches approached the European Community He brings to light events and issues which have not previously been examined such as the response of churches to the Schuman Plan and the political mobilisation of church representations in Brussels Strasbourg and Luxembourg Leustean argues that the concept of a united Europe has been impeded by competing national differences between religious and political institutions having a long standing legacy on the making of a fragmented European Community

Toward a Common Future William G. Rusch, 2019-05-20 This book provides a specific proposal for churches divided by centuries long disputes and disagreements to move toward a vision of the unity of the church It seeks to offer a way for divided churches to move beyond the present quagmire that challenges much of the modern ecumenical movement Building upon the theological dialogues between the churches this volume identifies and supplies a way for churches to regain a momentum that seems recently to have been lost in the ecumenical movement
