

Explicit Teaching

Gradual Release of Responsibility

Student
Teacher

Activate prior learning/ Build field knowledge

Purpose: Present, explain and discuss the learning intention & the success criteria

When: Teacher's activates students' prior knowledge, language and experience

How: Build students' knowledge of the field by explicitly teaching the language associated with the task. This includes both 'social' and 'academic' language

Why: Students' understanding of the learning context and the vocabulary is essential to access and understand the explicit teaching that will follow in the following phases

Model and deconstruct

Purpose: Model the learning intention and the success criteria

When: Teachers deconstruct the model using clear, scaffolded explanations.

How: Provide and deconstruct models and/or graphic organisers to represent the language, thinking and organisational strategies

Use 'think alouds' to explicitly model the strategies and language used when deconstructing the model.

Why: A shared metalinguage needs to be developed and gradually built up to enable participation, access and engagement in later phases

Joint construction

Purpose: Model the learning intention and the success criteria

When: Teachers scaffold students' partial responses into complete ideas.

How: Model the thinking and organisational strategies that are required to demonstrate the knowledge/skill

Why: The vocabulary and metalinguage introduced in the earlier phases is further consolidated and contextualised during joint construction. This language is essential for engagement in remaining phases.

Supported practice

Purpose: Model the learning intention and the success criteria

When: Teachers provide task oriented feedback.

How: Listen to how students talk about the task, watch how they work and probe into their thinking using prompts. Prompts encourage the student to think deeply about their performance and apply the feedback to demonstrate the success criteria.

Why: Students develop their proficiency by registering the task orientated feedback and then refining their practice.

Independent practice

Purpose: Assess the learning intention against the success criteria

When: Students independently apply their learning to new individual or group tasks.

How: Any feedback in this phase must place responsibility on the student to improve and correct their work

Why: Through practice students develop their automaticity, fluency and comprehension strategies to complete a related task

Share and reflect

Purpose: Students monitor and assess their own capability to demonstrate mastery

When: Teachers provide explicit feedback to students about their performance against the success criteria

When: Students and groups share their strategies and insights

How: Students reflect on their performance against the success criteria

Why: Students connect their next learning steps to current performance

John Fleming Explicit Teaching Model:

Towards a Moving School John Fleming, Elizabeth Kleinhenz, 2007 The Educational Leadership Dialogues series creates a bridge between educational research and practice and provides resources that support educational leadership The series teams up researchers and experienced school principals to write short evidence based practical guides on topics of significance while engaging in a rich dialogue about practice and research

School Reform in an Era of Standardization Ian Hardy, 2020-12-29 School Reform in an Era of Standardization explores how teachers and school based administrators navigate the processes of accountability and standardization in schooling systems and settings It provides clear insights into how the work and learning of teachers and students in schools have been dramatically reconstituted by increased pressures of external political scrutiny and accountability The book reveals in detail the nature and effects of standardization processes upon schools and schooling systems Specifically it shows how curriculum development teaching and assessment practices have all been recalibrated under conditions of increased external scrutiny of teacher and student work and learning and how such processes are manifest in curriculum dominated by attention to literacy and numeracy more scripted pedagogies and standardized testing However the research not only elaborates the detrimental effects of such processes but also how those responsible for educating in schools teachers heads of curriculum deputy principals and principals have responded proactively by interpreting interrogating and challenging these conditions In this way it provides resources for hope evidence of what are described as more authentic accountabilities and at the same time it provides a clear portrait of the difficulty of fostering substantive curriculum teaching and assessment reform during an era of increasingly reductive accountability processes It will be an invaluable resource for understanding and enhancing practices in schools and school systems in the decades to come and for giving hope to educators in the ongoing work of rebuilding trust in public education

Improving Schools Using Systems Leadership Ian Macdonald, Clive Dixon, Tony Tiplady, 2019-06-26 It is easy to underestimate the impact that school organisation has on the behaviour effectiveness engagement and creativity of the teachers staff and students who work within it It also has a marked effect on the well being of staff members and how families and the community relate to the school Attempts to improve school organisation are often short term initiatives that only cover only one or two aspects of what it takes to organise a school effectively Improving Schools Using Systems Leadership in contrast provides those involved in the design and delivery of educational services with a coherent and easy to follow framework to help run an effective organisation Based on theory real data on education improvements at school and regional level and case studies this book demonstrates how Systems Leadership can be used to improve school organisation It integrates models of leadership teamwork capability structure and systems to help make them more effective in improving the learning outcomes of students and also sustain this improvement over time This book explains how Systems Leadership can and has been applied in schools to bring clarity to the purpose structure and systems within a school and have a major impact on its success As such it is an essential text for school leaders and managers looking for practical tools to help improve the working lives of the people within their organisation and hence their effectiveness Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Education Kaye Price, Jessa Rogers, 2019-08-26 Includes access to the ebook which features additional learning activities suggested responses and interactive elements Harnessing the Science of Learning Nathaniel Swain, 2024-10-25 Drawing together the worlds of classroom practice school leadership and scientific research this is an essential how to guide for initiating and maintaining a school improvement journey based on the science of learning What we now know about learning and teaching is vast yet often wading through the thousands of articles and books on this subject can leave even the most seasoned educator overwhelmed This guide instead offers a distillation of key understandings for teaching literacy mathematics curriculum and implementation to launch your school improvement work Harnessing the Science of Learning also features contributions from thought leaders across the fields of learning sciences and educational practice Pamela Snow Tanya Serry Zach Groshell Reid Smith Toni Hatten Roberts Simon Breakspear Katie Roberts Hull David Morkunas Steven Capp Shane Pearson and Eamon Charles This book illustrates practical ways to harness this knowledge using a series of exemplary school case studies These insightful narratives of transformation are interwoven with summaries of powerful teaching practices forming a roadmap to drive improvement In this volume you will learn how even discrete changes in a school can have marked impacts It is suitable for those already versed in such principles as well as anyone curious to plunge into what the science of learning has to offer The Self-Transforming School Brian J. Caldwell, Jim M.

Spinks, 2013-07-18 The Self Transforming School combines an insightful meta analysis of factors contributing to the success of schools and an examination of powerful mega trends that are shaping developments in education to offer the first mega analysis in education policy and practice The book spans fifty years beginning with Caldwell and Spinks ground breaking work The Self Managing School which advocated innovative approaches that are now accepted as preferred practice before offering a prognosis and plan for the future The book argues that all schools in all settings can secure success for all students in an era where society and the economy are changing constantly and dramatically Although schools find some support in local and global networks externally designed re structuring re staffing or command and control direction isn t sufficient to achieve transformation Instead of replicating particular approaches to achieve modest improvement leadership of the highest quality needs to be deeply embedded in schools and their systems Caldwell and Spinks propose three important points that need to be taken into consideration schools are often at different stages of self transformation self transformation requires a high level of professionalism and must include teacher education and on going professional development funding is critically important and efforts to build a capacity for self transformation are constrained by what is available The book gives particular attention to developments in Australia Brazil Canada England Finland Hong Kong India New Zealand Shanghai Singapore and the United States It will be of key interest to school leaders policy makers and academics and postgraduate students engaged in research on equity student performance in highly disadvantaged settings and education policy

Re-Imagining Educational Leadership Brian Caldwell, 2006-11-18 If one is concerned with the future of education this book is a must While it is humbling it is also an inspirational invitation for transformation Florida Journal of Educational Administration Policy It is clear that school leadership has had to adapt to the changing educational climate and this has required changes at all levels as well as shifts in balance This book addresses these challenges and demonstrates a variety of illustrative examples of how successful these changes can be This is a useful primer for those studying leadership in schools and some of the associated theories and practice There are wide and well considered references across the educational and management landscape and it provides thought provoking views on how leadership can be practised ESCalate The fact that we know you are watching Brian helps all of us both to perform well in the present and to invent a future in which we perform better still I commend Brian's writings to anyone committed to world class public education Professor Sir Michael Barber Expert Partner Global Public Sector Practice McKinsey and Company Former Head of Prime Minister's Delivery Unit at 10 Downing Street In Re-imagining Educational Leadership Brian Caldwell has set an outstanding framework for school leaders and educators to fundamentally rethink schools and school leadership The book is very perceptive and links ideas and concepts to the practical reality of schools in an inspiring and imaginative way This is a must read book for all those involved in developing inspiring leadership in our schools This is a major contribution to the educational literature Professor Brent Davies Professor of International Leadership Development at the University of Hull Brian Caldwell has successfully brought together an analysis of past and current practice in leadership but most significantly he has outlined key thoughts ideas and perspectives to inspire leaders in their personal learning journey in the future This book will become one of the key sources of ideas for leadership in schools over the next few years It is both accessible and thought provoking while never losing the practical relevance to schools and school leaders This is a must read for all those involved in educational leadership and 21st century schooling International Journal of Educational Management We do not know the precise form that education will take in different settings in 25 years time No one does No one should claim to have this foresight Leadership is required however regardless of the form that education takes In this book Brian Caldwell draws on his work on self managing schools his most recent work in the UK with the Specialist Schools and Academies Trust and on evidence from around the world to describe how leadership is changing the world of education on a scale that can best be described as transformation Such leadership differs in important ways from what has been expected in the past it requires a change in role at all levels and shifts the balance from what is often a dispiriting and discouraging experience to one that is exhilarating The author's insight and recommendations are essential reading for all school leaders potential school leaders and policy makers at local and national levels who seek to secure high levels of achievement for all students in all settings About the author Brian J Caldwell is Managing Director of Melbourne based Educational Transformations and Professorial Fellow at the University of

Melbourne where he served as Dean of Education from 1998 to 2004 He is Associate Director Global of International Networking for Educational Transformation a project of the London based Specialist Schools and Academies Trust Brian is internationally known as an expert in educational leadership Awards include the Gold Medal of the Australian Council of Educational Leaders the Hedley Beare Educator of the Year Award Victoria and the College Medal Australia of the Australian College of Educators

How School Principals Sustain Success over Time Leif Moos, Olof Johansson, Christopher Day, 2011-05-26 This work represents a publishing event in education research Genuinely groundbreaking it is the result of longitudinal research from five nations over five years. The authors set themselves an unprecedented task to analyze how it is that successful school principals sustain positive outcomes over a significant period of time. To find out they initiated the International Successful School Principal Project (ISSPP) assembling 30 multinational case histories and numerous comparative analyses. In doing so they recorded fresh perspectives on the influence school principals can have on their schools, the quality of teaching in their classrooms and student outcomes. Revisiting the subject schools in 2007 they found many principals still in place having steered their organizations through various minefields of political governance and educational reform. As the most penetrating longitudinal investigation of the subject, this research has unearthed fascinating new insights into school leadership that add real substance to the sum of our knowledge. It incorporates data from educational systems in Australia, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, England and the USA. One key finding is that while all principals delegate a range of leadership tasks, successful ones distribute responsibility on a case-by-case basis, founded on personal assessments of their staff as well as on organizational and policy contexts. The research also demonstrates that successful principals maintain close communication with their staff and the wider school environment and that they are adaptive, maximizing the opportunities presented by new political contexts and expectations yet without losing sight of their school's core moral and ethical principles. The volume's international thematic analysis has allowed comparative conclusions to be drawn on what the principals do to sustain and foster pedagogical and institutional success.

US and Cross-National Policies, Practices, and Preparation Rose M. Ylimaki, Stephen L. Jacobson, 2011-02-16

As educational policy trends converge in many countries, such as demands for greater accountability, decentralization and more culturally sensitive practices for an increasingly diverse student body, there is growing interest in cross-national comparisons and generalizations about leadership qualities and practices that result in successful schools. US and Cross-National Policies, Practices and Preparation: Implications for Successful Instructional Leadership, Organizational Learning and Culturally Responsive Practices fills that need by bringing together triads of scholars from the International Study of Successful School Principals (ISSPP) to make direct comparisons among policies and practices in the U.S. with those in other national contexts and then to draw implications for improving leadership preparation. This book provides theories and empirical case study examples of instructional leadership, organizational learning and culturally responsive practices as they are shaped by political, economic and cultural factors in seven different national contexts. The seven countries featured in this book are the U.S., Australia, Denmark, England, Sweden, Norway and Cyprus. The book begins with an overview of the ISSPP, including its underlying theoretical framework, its research methodologies, employed limitations and how analyses of the project's data and findings evolved from the first phase of the study to its current focus.

Selected Studies in History of Science Reijer Hooykaas, 1983

Teaching and Learning about Science Derek Hodson, 2009-01-01 Findings generated by recent research in science education international debate on the guiding purposes of science education and the nature of scientific and technological literacy official and semi official reports on science education including recommendations from prestigious organizations such as AAAS and UNESCO and concerns expressed by scientists environmentalists and engineers about current science education provision and the continuing low levels of scientific attainment among the general population have led to some radical re thinking of the nature of the science curriculum There has been a marked shift of rhetorical emphasis in the direction of considerations of the nature of science model based reasoning inquiry based learning scientific argumentation and the use of language rich learning experiences reading writing talking to enhance concept acquisition and development These findings arguments and pronouncements seem to point very clearly in the direction of regarding science education as a study of scientific practice This book presents a comprehensive research based account of how such a vision could be assembled into a coherent curriculum and presented to students in ways that are meaningful motivating and successful The author takes what might be described as an anthropological approach in which scientists are studied as a socially economically and politically important community of people This group has its own distinctive language body of knowledge investigative methods history traditions norms and values each of which can be studied explicitly systematically and reflectively This particular approach was chosen for the powerful theoretical overview it provides and for its motivational value especially for students from sociocultural groups currently under served by science education and under represented in science The book which is both timely and important is written for teachers student teachers graduate students in education teacher educators curriculum developers and those responsible for educational policy It has the potential to impact very substantially on both pre service and inservice science teacher education programmes and to shift school science education practice strongly in the direction currently being advocated by prominent science educators

Baptist Theology James Leo Garrett, 2009 This title offers a comprehensive analysis of Baptist theology Embracing in one common trajectory the major Baptist confessions of faith the major Baptist theologians and the principal Baptist theological movements and controversies this book spans four centuries of Baptist doctrinal history Acknowledging first the pre 1609 roots patristic medieval and Reformational of Baptist theology it examines the Arminian versus Calvinist issues that were first expressed by the General Baptists and the Particular Baptists that dominated English and American Baptist theology during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries from Helwys and Smyth and from Bunyan and Kiffin to Gill Fuller Backus and Boyce and that were quickened by the awakenings and the missionary movement Concurrently there were the Baptist defense of the Baptist distinctives vis a vis the pedobaptist world and the unfolding of a strong Baptist confessional tradition Then during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries the liberal versus evangelical issues became dominant with Hovey Strong Rauschenbusch and Henry in the North and Mullins Conner Hobbs and Criswell in the South even as a distinctive Baptist Landmarkism developed the discipline of biblical theology was practiced and a structured ecumenism was pursued Missiology both impacted Baptist theology and took it to all the continents where it became increasingly indigenous Conscious that Baptists belong to the free churches and to the believers churches a new generation of Baptist theologians at the advent of the twenty first century appears somewhat more Calvinist than Arminian and decidedly more evangelical than
