Statistical Methods for Annotation Analysis Silviu Paun, Ron Artstein, Massimo Poesio, 2022-05-31 Labelling data is one of the most fundamental activities in science and has underpinned practice particularly in medicine for decades as well as research in corpus linguistics since at least the development of the Brown corpus With the shift towards Machine Learning in Artificial Intelligence AI the creation of datasets to be used for training and evaluating AI systems also known in AI as corpora has become a central activity in the field as well Early AI datasets were created on an ad hoc basis to tackle specific problems As larger and more reusable datasets were created requiring greater investment the need for a more systematic approach to dataset creation arose to ensure increased quality A range of statistical methods were adopted often but not exclusively from the medical sciences to ensure that the labels used were not subjective or to choose among different labels provided by the coders A wide variety of such methods is now in regular use This book is meant to provide a survey of the most widely used among these statistical methods supporting annotation practice As far as the authors know this is the first book attempting to cover the two families of methods in wider use The first family of methods is concerned with the development of labelling schemes and in particular ensuring that such schemes are such that sufficient agreement can be observed among the coders The second family includes methods developed to analyze the output of coders once the scheme has been agreed upon particularly although not exclusively to identify the most likely label for an item among those provided by the coders The focus of this book is primarily on Natural Language Processing the area of AI devoted to the development of models of language interpretation and production but many if not most of the methods discussed here are also applicable to other areas of AI or indeed to other areas of Data Science

Quantitative Semantics and Soft Computing Methods for the Web: Perspectives and Applications Brena, Ramon

F.,Guzman-Arenas, Adolfo,2011-10-31 The Internet has been acknowledged as a recent technological revolution due to its significant impact on society as a whole Nevertheless precisely due to its impact limitations of the current Internet are becoming apparent in particular its inability to automatically take into account the meaning of online documents Some proposals for taking meaning into account began to appear mainly the so called Semantic Web which includes a set of technologies like RDF that are based on new markup languages Though these technologies could be technically sound practical limitations such as the high training level required to construct Semantic Web pages and the small proportion of current Semantic Web pages make the Semantic Web marginal today and also in the near foreseeable future Quantitative Semantics and Soft Computing Methods for the Web Perspectives and Applications will provide relevant theoretical frameworks and the latest empirical research findings related to quantitative soft computing and approximate methods for dealing with Internet semantics The target audience of this book is composed of professionals and researchers working in the fields of information and knowledge related technologies e g Information sciences and technology computer science Web science and artificial intelligence

Text, Speech and Dialogue Petr Sojka,Ivan Kopecek,Karel Pala,2003-08-02 The Text Speech and Dialogue TSD Conference 2002 it should be noticed is now being held for the fth time and we are pleased to observe that in its short history it has turned out to be an international forum successfully intertwining the basic elds of NLP It is our strong hope that the conference contributes to a better understanding between researchers from the various areas and promotes more intensive mutual cooperation So far the communication between man and computers has displayed a one way nature humans have to know how the chines work and only then can they understand them The opposite however is still quite far from being real our understanding of how our user friendly computers can understand us humans is not deep enough yet A lot of work has to be done both in the near and distant future Let TSD 2002 be a modest contribution to this goal The conference also serves well in its second purpose to facilitate researchers meeting in the NLP eld from Western and Eastern Europe Moreover many participants now come from other parts of the world thus making TSD a real crossroadsforresearchersintheNLParea Thisvolumecontainstheproceedings of this conference held in Brno September 9 12 2002 We were honored to have as keynote speakers James Pustejovsky from Brandeis University and Ronald Cole from the University of Colorado We would like to thank all the Program Committee members and external reviewers for their conscientious and diligent reviewing work

Information Retrieval Evaluation in a Changing World Nicola Ferro,Carol Peters,2019-08-13 This volume celebrates the twentieth anniversary of CLEF the Cross Language Evaluation Forum for the first ten years and the Conference and Labs of the Evaluation Forum since and traces its evolution over these first two decades CLEF s main mission is to promote research innovation and development of information retrieval IR systems by anticipating trends in information management in order to stimulate advances in the field of IR system experimentation and evaluation The book is divided into six parts Parts I and II provide background and context with the first part explaining what is meant by experimental evaluation and the underlying theory and describing how this has been interpreted in CLEF and in other internationally recognized evaluation initiatives Part II presents research architectures and infrastructures that have been developed to manage experimental data and to provide evaluation services in CLEF and elsewhere Parts III IV and V represent the core of the book presenting some of the most significant evaluation activities in CLEF ranging from the early multilingual text processing exercises to the later more sophisticated experiments on multimodal collections in diverse genres and media In all cases the focus is not only on describing what has been achieved but above all on what has been learnt The final part examines the impact CLEF has had on the research world and discusses current and future challenges both academic and industrial including the relevance of IR benchmarking in industrial settings Mainly intended for researchers in academia and industry it also offers useful insights and tips for practitioners in industry working on the evaluation and performance issues of IR tools and graduate students specializing in information retrieval Critical
