Information Systems Outsourcing Information Systems Outsourcing:

Information Systems Outsourcing Rudy Hirschheim, Armin Heinzl, Jens Dibbern, 2013-03-09 As the information systems IS outsourcing trend has gained momentum it is prudent to stop and reflect on several critical questions What are the actual intentions of organizations for evaluating and then choosing outsourcing What problems are these organizations attempting to solve with outsourcing Do vendors satisfactorily provide solutions to these problems What are the advantages and disadvantages of outsourcing If an organization decides to outsource are there strategies which can be employed to assure an effective outsourcing arrangement What happens if outsourcing does not work for a particular company can it return to a non outsourced state and at what cost How do new sourcing trends like application service providing challenge the traditional IS outsourcing life cycle Questions such as these motivated the conceptual development of this book

Information Systems Outsourcing
Rudy Hirschheim, Armin Heinzl, Jens Dibbern, 2007-06-13 Four years have been passed away since the first edition of this book has been published While certain key issues on IS sourcing like determinants and application service provision have become more mature from an academic and industry perspective additional topics have arisen on the horizon In particular offshoring and business process outsourcing have led to numerous insightful publications which offer a valuable and indispensable holistic sourcing perspective Thus the second edition of our outsourcing book deals with enduring themes new perspectives and global challenges In addition to classical themes like Sourcing Determinants Part I Relationship Aspects Part II and Experiences Part III we felt it worthwhile to add three new parts They cover information systems outsourcing from a Vendor and Individual Perspective Part IV Application Service Providing Part V as well as Offshoring and Global Outsourcing Part VI Again we have thoughtfully tried to arrange a compilation of contemporary outsourcing research as a primer and a platform for scientific discourse In contrast to the first edition this book is not the outcome of an International Conference but rather an update of important and relevant perspectives Since the Third International Conference on Outsourcing of Information Services will take place 2007 in Heidelberg Germany it may be considered as an epilogue for further interactions and discussions Information Systems Outsourcing Rudy Hirschheim, Armin Heinzl, Jens Dibbern, 2014-08-12 This book attempts to synthesize research that contributes to a better understanding of how to reach sustainable business value through information systems IS outsourcing Important topics in this realm are how IS outsourcing can contribute to innovation how it can be dynamically governed how to cope with its increasing complexity through multi vendor arrangements how service quality standards can be met how corporate social responsibility can be upheld and how to cope with increasing demands of internationalization and new sourcing models such as crowdsourcing and platform based cooperation These issues are viewed from either the client or vendor perspective or both The book should be of interest to all academics and students in the fields of Information Systems Management and Organization as well as corporate executives and professionals who seek a more profound analysis and understanding of the underlying factors and mechanisms of outsourcing Information Systems Outsourcing Mary C. Lacity, Rudy A. Hirschheim, 1993-08-17 Using case studies of 13 companies examines the intentions motivations decision making outcomes and consequences of information systems outsourcing Proposes an outsourcing evaluation process Information Systems Outsourcing Rudy Hirschheim, Armin Heinzl, Jens Dibbern, 2009-03-24 Three years have passed since the second edition of this book was published The field of IT outsourcing continues to grow in practice as well as in academia and draws further attention in both domains Aspects of traditional outsourcing Part II have remained pronounced but are becoming more mature While outsourcing determinants are still important they are now of less interest to researchers Relationship management Chap 1 and capability management Chap 2 continue to be of interest so too are outsourcing outcomes Chap 3 and as a new focus innovation aspects Chap 4 These are motivating more and more research activities complementing the lifecycle of traditional outsourcing We note significant growth in the field of IT offshoring Part II In our third edition we offer research results on offshoring patterns and trends Chap 5 the crucial aspect of knowledge sharing Chap 6 vibrant examples for offshoring dynamics Chap 7 and some new contributions on the determinants of offshoring success Chap 8 The last part of our book investigates the field of business process outsourcing Part III In this section issues such as standardization process outsourcing to India and deinstitutionalization patterns in the health care sector are presented Given these new subjects we believe that Enduring Themes Global Challenges and Process Opportunities is an appropriate subtitle for this third edition of the monograph Again we have thoughtfully compiled contemporary outsourcing research as a primer and a platform for scientific discourse

Knowledge Content in Outsourced Information Systems Development Projects. Insights from an Exploratory Study of a Developing Country Solomon Abebe,2019-10-30 Academic Paper from the year 2018 in the subject Business economics Information Management grade A language English abstract This paper presents an exploratory study of knowledge content in outsourced Information systems development projects within the context of a developing economy in general and Ethiopia in particular Semi structured interviews were conducted with ten project managers to identify the relevant knowledge types in information systems outsourcing The results indicate that six knowledge types namely business domain knowledge technical knowledge information systems application knowledge organizational knowledge adapted information systems development methodology knowledge and newly generated project specific knowledge are important in information systems development outsourcing The analysis suggests that the identified knowledge areas are not completely independent but rather they are complementary Both knowledge types are necessary for the development of information systems Moreover neither the client nor the vendor possesses the full range of the required knowledge The paper then argues that the very generic classification of knowledge has limitation to provide a complete specification of the knowledge items needed in information systems outsourcing context It also notes that the knowledge content in outsourcing arrangements of Ethiopia is characterized by inadequate and unrelated knowledge transfer between outsourcing partners less attention paid by vendors to knowledge about the clients existing systems and IT landscape and low level of awareness about the knowledge content with regard to know why of using a new system or technology

Trends of Information Systems Outsourcing - a Romanian Perspective Gabriela Mesnita,Florin Dumitriu,2008 Business today depends on information technology as never before One of the key stage of information system development consist in election of system design alternative In this regard could be look at three basic approaches buy a commercial solution and customize it develop a custom software application in house or outsource the project to an external vendor or developer Ten years ago outsourcing vendors have focused mainly on data centers and legacy applications In the last decade outsourcing has become an efficient method to cut costs and improve the performance of a information system development and operating within a company As the new trend of globalization constrain companies worldwide to go outside of national frontiers to look for the specialised firms for different business areas in their needs for best equilibrium between high quality of services and cost effective solutions This is the same situation of IT companies In this context could be seen the trend of IT outsourcing market development in particular oriented to the developing countries such as those from Asia East Europe The pressure to cut costs forces IT companies to search for cost effective solutions for software development projects so the price for software product could be dropped and the company could get a better position on the market One of attractive destination for IT companies is Romania due to the great number of well educated and highly skilled IT workers who have better understanding of Western European and American culture In this paper we discuss the main evolution stages of information systems design alternatives and the perspective of IT outsourcing market in Romania We focus on the advantages of Romania as IT outsourcing market under globalization context
