Infrastructural Lives Urban Infrastructure In Context:

Infrastructural Lives Stephen Graham, Colin McFarlane, 2014-10-10 Infrastructural Lives is the first book to describe the everyday experience and politics of urban infrastructures. It focuses on a range of infrastructures in both the global South and North. The book examines how day to day experience and perception of infrastructure provides a new and powerful lens to view urban sustainability politics, economics, cultures, and ecologies. An interdisciplinary group of leading and emerging urban researchers examine critical questions about urban infrastructure in different global contexts. The chapters address water, sanitation, and waste politics in Mumbai, Kampala, and Tyneside; analyse the use of infrastructure in the dispossession of Palestinian communities; explore the pacification of Rio's favelas in the run up to the 2014 World Cup; describe how people's bodies and lives effectively operate as infrastructure in many major cities; and also explores tentative experiments with low carbon infrastructures. These diverse cases and perspectives are connected by a shared sense of infrastructure not just as a thing, a system, or an output, but as a complex social and technological process that enables or disables particular kinds of action in the city. Infrastructural Lives is crucial reading for academics, researchers, students, and practitioners in urban studies globally.

Urban Infrastructure Remo Dalla Longa, 2023-03-01 The book deals with the concept of urban infrastructure and the strong evolution of globalization, in particular the driving force taken by global cities. Urban infrastructure is a constituent part of the global cities, both have a synergistic evolution. The main reference is to western global cities in the intertwining of financialization, settling, and brownfield, which is a little different from the urbanization of other global cities of other non-developed countries or emerging countries. There is therefore a significant link between globalization and urban infrastructure. The occurrence of slowbalization can have consequences on urban areas, infrastructures, and more generally on the different dichotomy between global city and nation. With the pandemic, infectious, and the post-COVID, there is already a different configuration between the global city and the rest of the national territory. A driving element of the urban infrastructure and the global city has been the financialization and identification of assets within global cities. Urban infrastructure as an asset has grown considerably in the last two decades in the wake of what has already been highlighted previously for real estate. There are contiguous issues that affect the concept of urban infrastructures, and they are the enormous growth of finance and the landings of this in the great cities of the world with investments that first involved Real Estate and then urban infrastructures. There has also been a technological revolution that has merged the ubiquitous technological infrastructure with other more traditional components of the infrastructure, even apparently recent themes such as smart cities come from this evolutionary trend and merge with urban infrastructures. The theme of smart cities, if properly interpreted, gives strength to the concept of urban infrastructure.

Being Urban Simon Goldhill, 2020-09-06 In Being Urban, Simon Goldhill and his team of outstanding urbanists explore the meaning of the urban condition with particular reference to the Middle East. As Goldhill explains in his introduction, "What is a good city? five questions motivate the book How can a city be systematically planned and yet maintain a possibility of flexibility change and the wellbeing of citizens How does the city represent itself to itself and image its past its present and its future What is it to dwell in and experience a city How does violence erupt in and to a city and what strategies of reconciliation and reconstruction can be employed And finally what is the relationship between the infrastructure of the city and the political process Following the introduction the twelve chapters are grouped into four sections Engagement and Space Infrastructure and Space Conflict and Structures and Curating the City Through each chapter the contributors reflect on aspects of urban infrastructure and culture citizenship belonging and exclusion politics and conflict with examples from across the Middle East from Cairo to Tehran Tel Aviv to Istanbul Not only will Being Urban further understanding of the topography of citizenship in the Middle East and beyond it will also contribute to answering one of today's key questions What Is A Good City

Infrastructures and Social Complexity Penelope Harvey,Casper Bruun Jensen,Atsuro Morita,2016-10-04

Contemporary forms of infrastructural development herald alternative futures through their incorporation of digital technologies mobile capital international politics and the promises and fears of enhanced connectivity In tandem with increasing concerns about climate change and the anthropocene there is further an urgency around contemporary infrastructural provision a concern about its fragility and an awareness that these connective relational systems significantly shape both local and planetary futures in ways that we need to understand more clearly Offering a rich set of empirically detailed and conceptually sophisticated studies of infrastructural systems and experiments present and past contributors to this volume address both the transformative potential of infrastructural systems and their stasis Covering infrastructural figures their ontologies epistemologies classifications and politics and spanning development urban energy environmental and information infrastructures the chapters explore both the promises and failures of infrastructure Tracing the experimental histories of a wide range of infrastructures and documenting their variable outcomes the volume offers a unique set of analytical perspectives on contemporary infrastructural complications These studies bring a systematic empirical and analytical attention to human worlds as they intersect with more than human worlds whether technological or biological

Redeploying Urban Infrastructure Jonathan Rutherford, 2019-07-31 This book explores urban futures in the making as seen through the lens of urban infrastructure The book describes how socio technical arrangements of energy and water provision are being recast in continuing efforts towards realising sustainable transformation of cities It critically investigates how infrastructure comes to matter by analyzing the shifting capacities and entanglements of diverse actors with these systems the various means they use to envision enact and contest changes and the wide ranging social and political implications of emerging infrastructure transitions Drawing on original research into urban infrastructure debates and projects in Stockholm and Paris the author develops a novel conceptual framework for studying and acknowledging the active vital role of infrastructure in constituting a material politics of urban transformation Straddling the latest theoretical insights and empirical investigation of urban planning practice and socio technical engineering of systems and flows Redeploying Urban Infrastructure forges new timely reflections and perspectives which will be of interest to the growing multidisciplinary community of scholars investigating infrastructure and to academics and practitioners with a concern for understanding the wider politics of urban futures

Problem Spaces Celia Lury, 2021-01-20 In this innovative book Celia Lury argues that the time has come for us to explore the world not only with new methods but with a new approach to methodology itself Fundamental changes are taking place in how we produce knowledge how we communicate it and indeed what we consider to be knowledge These changes demand innovative and creative responses to research questions Lury's rethinking of the nature of social inquiry starts by reconceptualizing the problem space Problems are not static or a given rather they are created and continually recomposed as part of the methodological process itself Following the line of thought that methods are practices that articulate as much as capture a social problem Lury further develops the notion of compositional methodology to think through its implications With remarkable fluency the book draws into conversation a range of hot button issues both longstanding and novel from observation reflexivity recursive measurement and feminist methodologies to participation context datafication and platformization Always with an eye to the methodological potential of new trends the book provides a strong challenge to much received wisdom and argues that a combination of techniques can contribute to better understanding of the problem spaces we all inhabit

Rethinking Urbanism Myers, Garth, 2020-06-03 This book provides new insights into popular understandings of urbanism by using a wide range of case studies from lesser studied cities across the Global South and Global North to present evidence for the need to reconstruct our understanding of who and what makes urban environments Myers explores the global hierarchy of cities the criteria for positioning within these hierarchies and the successes of various policymaking approaches designed specifically to boost a city's ranking Engaging heavily with postcolonial studies and Global South thinking he shows how cities construct one another's spaces and calls for a new understanding of planetary urbanism that moves beyond Western centric perspectives Urban Recycling

Cooperatives Jutta Gutberlet, 2016-05-12 Solid waste is a major urban challenge worldwide and decisions over which technologies or methods to apply can have beneficial or detrimental long term consequences Inappropriate management of solid waste can lead to damaging environmental impacts particularly in the megacities of the Global South Urban Recycling Cooperatives explores the multiple narratives and interdisciplinary nature of waste studies drawing attention to the pressing social economic and environmental challenges related to waste management The book asks questions such as how do we define waste and our relation to it who is involved in dealing with waste and what power interactions become manifest over issues of accessing and managing waste In recent years informal cooperatives have emerged devoted to recycling household and business waste before reclassifying it and redirecting it to the authorities Hence these workers are able to reclaim significant amounts of natural resources and thus contribute to the saving of resources and lessened waste management expenditures With particular reference to the Brazilian megalopolis of S o Paulo this book describes this paradigm shift in the general understanding of waste as unwanted discard towards the recognition of waste as a resource that must be recovered for reuse or recycling It would be of interest to students and policy makers working in international development and waste management The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license South African urban imaginaries: cases from Johannesburg Richard Ballard, Sandiswa Mapukata, 2022-06-01 How do government officials elected politicians powerful economic actors and ordinary people think and talk about the urban geography of South Africa How do they describe and represent change that is happening in cities towns and villages Do they consider these changes to be good or bad How do they think such places should change What do they do to try to bring about the changes they desire Competing answers to these questions have been at the centre of South Africa s urban development Through the 19th and 20th centuries white minority governments straddled quite contradictory imaginaries about who could build lives for themselves in urban areas and on what terms Ordinary people held their own urban imaginaries that were quite different to those of white minority governments and were core to the fight for democracy In the democratic era a range of official and popular imaginaries offer diverse visions on how South Africans should be transformed In an earlier collection produced under the GCRO Spatial Imaginaries project we explored the sometimes contradictory nature of post apartheid urban visions with for example with some promoting the creation of new urban settlements on greenfield sites and others attempting to densify and diversify long urbanised spaces Research Report 13 South African urban imaginaries Cases from Johannesburg is a second edited collection under the Spatial Imaginaries project and it uses a series of cases from Johannesburg that illustrate the interactions between urban imaginaries and the material city These cases include the depiction of central business districts in film as spaces of aspiration the way in which the imaginaries of developers in Hillbrow were shaped by the lives of those living there the imaginaries of Alexandra Renewal Project practitioners the way in which residents of Brixton understand diversity and the construction of two new bridges across the M1 to better connect Sandton and Alexandra

City of Men Romit Chowdhury, 2023-08-11 How do men experience gender in the city Through descriptions of autorickshaw and taxi operators and their interactions with traffic police and commuters in Kolkata India this book highlights the gendered logics of cooperation and everyday morality through which masculinities take up space in cities

Everyday Sectarianism in Urban Lebanon Joanne Randa Nucho, 2016-12-06 What causes violent conflicts around the Middle East All too often the answer is sectarianism popularly viewed as a timeless and intractable force that leads religious groups to conflict In Everyday Sectarianism in Urban Lebanon Joanne Nucho shows how wrong this perspective can be Through in depth research with local governments NGOs and political parties in Beirut she demonstrates how sectarianism is actually recalibrated on a daily basis through the provision of essential services and infrastructures such as electricity medical care credit and the planning of bridges and roads Taking readers to a working class predominantly Armenian suburb in northeast Beirut called Bourj Hammoud Nucho conducts extensive interviews and observations in medical clinics social service centers shops banking coops and municipal offices She explores how group and individual access to services depends on making claims to membership in the dominant sectarian community and she examines how sectarianism is not just tied to ethnoreligious identity but also class gender and geography Life in Bourj Hammoud makes visible a broader pattern in which the relationships that develop while procuring basic needs become a way for people to see themselves as part of the greater public Illustrating how sectarianism in Lebanon is not simply about religious identity as is commonly thought Everyday Sectarianism in Urban Lebanon offers a new look at how everyday social exchanges define and redefine communities and conflicts
