The Neurobehavioral and Social-Emotional Development of Infants and Children Ed Tronick, 2014-10-01 Internationally recognized as one of the premier researchers on child development Ed Tronick has held notable teaching positions and conducted vital research for nearly 30 years Over the course of his esteemed career he has received funding for hundreds of key studies in the US and abroad on normal and abnormal infant and child development including his Mutual Regulation Model and Still Face Paradigm which revolutionized our understanding of infants emotional capacities and coping all of which led to critical contributions in the field Much of his work serves as the benchmark for how mental health clinicians think about biopsychosocial states of consciousness the process of meaning making and how and why we engage with others in the world Now for the first time Tronick has gathered together his most influential writings in a single essential volume Organized into five parts I Neurobehavior II Culture III Infant Social Emotional Interaction IV Perturbations Natural and Experimental and V Dyadic Expansion of Consciousness and Meaning Making this book represents his major ideas and studies regarding infant adult interactions developmental processes and mutual regulation carefully addressing such questions as What is a state of consciousness What are the developing infant's capacities for neurobehavioral self organization How are early infant adult interactions organized How can we understand the nature of normal versus abnormal development How do self and mutual regulation relate to developmental processes Is meaning making purely a function of the brain or is it in our bodies as well As a bonus the book includes a DVD ROM with video clips of Tronick's Still Face Paradigm an invaluable teaching aid

Working with Parents and Infants Antonella Sansone, 2018-04-24 Working with Parents and Infants is aimed at understanding the process of psychosomatic illness exploring the embodiment of psychosomatic health and illness and the inseparability of psyche and soma Within this book the author highlights the beneficial function of psychosomatic symptoms such as mastitis in signalling to the counsellor or therapist as well as the patient the need for change and the path through which it may occur Research and clinical literature have often overlooked the relationship between the woman's attitude to her bodyself thus her mind body integration breastfeeding and the quality of interactions with her baby A psychosomatic disturbance is in this book conceived as an impaired sense of bodyself or in other words a lack of psycho soma integration The author presents a new approach to health and the healing relationship emerging from a meeting between Eastern meditative disciplines and Western psychological practise Psychology: From Research to Practice H. Pick,2012-12-06 This book grew out of discussion at the meetings of the Board of Scientific Affairs of the American Psychological Association during the years 1972 through 1975 Members of the board felt that there was general misunderstanding by the public about the role of basic research in science The problem was thought to be particularly severe in the case of the behavioral sciences but it appeared to be a reflection of a more general anti intellectual attitude in the United States At the same time basic researchers had been admittedly underconcerned with the practical application of their results Yet many thoughtful scientists realize there is a very fruitful interplay between basic research and application The proposal was made to prepare a book of case studies that demonstrate the application of basic research in psychology The book was organized to sample applications from a range of topics in psychology The editorial board divided up responsibilities for these topics Herschel W Leibowitz focused on applications from experimental and engineering psychology and Jerome E Singer organized the section on applications to social problems Alfred Steinschneider took responsibility for the section on clinical applications of basic research in psychology and Harold W Stevenson organized the section on applications of basic research to developmental and educational problems Nurturing Children and Families Barry M.
