Agricultural Development in Developing Countries Cuong Tat Do, 2015-12-03 The standard policy prescription to enhance the productivity of agriculture in a developing country like Vietnam is first to encourage the investment of farmers in their human and social capital and then to change the governmental institutions to facilitate the farmers investment This book therefore analyzes the investment of farmers in their health education and social relationships in the context of Vietnams recent agrarian transition Using the tools of regression analysis the author has tried to measure the rate of return of investment in health education and social relationship of farmers on their income Additionally to measure the effect of local government policy on the performance of agricultural firms at the provincial level the book applies current techniques to estimate the relationship between output of agricultural firms and performance of local government As in other low developed countries the rate of return of investment in education is quite extreme and the rate of investment in health is small The effect of investment in social capital of farmers on their income is quite complex due to the complication of the term social capital Moreover the effect of quality of local institutions on performance of agricultural firms at the provincial level is not quite statistically significant The relationship is similar with other research findings worldwide when researchers want to measure the effect of quality of institution on the performance of firms

Strategic Investment Funds Shanthi Divakaran, Harvard Halland, Gianni Lorenzato, Paul Rose, 2022-06-20 Strategic investment funds SIFs have gained prominence over the past two decades as governments and other public sponsors globally have increasingly co-opted the investment fund model to further policy objectives Since 2000 more than 30 SIFs have been formed at the national level typically to boost economic growth through infrastructure or small and medium enterprise investment In the current COVID 19 pandemic environment governments have frequently turned to sovereign investment vehicles to address the economic effects of the pandemic echoing the emergence of new SIFs in the aftermath of the global financial crisis However SIFs are not devoid of challenges and the setup and operation of such funds can be fraught with risks particularly in contexts of weaker governance inadequate rule of law and limited financial market regulation The intent of Strategic Investment Funds Establishment and Operations is to provide guidance to practitioners and policy makers considering a SIF model where little widely available practice based experience has been documented and disseminated The book provides a reference for policy makers who are creating or strengthening the operations of SIFs particularly as governments examine the value of such funds as a policy instrument in the aftermath of the COVID 19 pandemic The SAGE Handbook of Asian Foreign Policy Takashi Inoguchi, 2021-08-04

Capital for the Future The World Bank, 2013-05-16

The gradual acceleration of growth in developing countries is a defining feature of the past two decades. This acceleration came with major shifts in patterns of investment saving and capital flows. This second volume in the Global Development Horizons series analyzes these shifts and explores how they may evolve through 2030. Average domestic saving in developing countries stood at 34 percent of their GDP in 2010, up from 24 percent in 1990, while their investment was around 33 percent of their GDP in 2012, up from 26 percent. These trends in saving and investment, along with higher growth rates in developing countries, have resulted in developing countries' share of global savings now standing at 46 percent, nearly double the level of the 1990s. The presence of developing countries on the global stage will continue to expand over the next two decades. Analysis in this report projects that by 2030, China will account for 30 percent of global investment activity, far and away the largest share of any single country, while India and Brazil at 7 percent and 3 percent will account for shares comparable to those of the United States and Japan, 11 percent and 5 percent. The complex interaction among aging growth and financial deepening can be expected to result in a world where developing countries will contribute 62 of every 100 dollars of world saving in 2030, up from 45 dollars in 2010, and where they account for between 6.2 trillion and 13 trillion of global gross capital flows, rising from 1.3 trillion in 2010. Trends in investment saving and capital flows through 2030 will affect economic conditions from the household level to the global macroeconomic level, with implications not only for national policy makers but also for international institutions and policy coordination. Policymakers preparing for this change will benefit from a better understanding of the unfolding dynamics of global capital and wealth in the future. This book is accompanied by a website: <http://www.worldbank.org/CapitalForTheFuture>, that includes a host of related electronic resources, data sets underlying the two main scenarios presented in the report, background papers, technical appendixes, interactive widgets with variations to some of the assumptions used in the projections, and related audio and video resources.

Infrastructure Investment in Indonesia: A Focus on Ports Colin

Duffield, Felix Kin Peng Hui, Sally Wilson, 2019-11-10 Infrastructure Investment in Indonesia A Focus on Ports presents an important and original collation of current material investigating the efficient facilitation of major infrastructure projects in Indonesia and Australia with an emphasis on infrastructure investment and a focus on port planning and development. This interdisciplinary collection spanning the disciplines of engineering, law and planning draws helpfully on a range of practical and theoretical perspectives. It is the collaborative effort of leading experts in the fields of infrastructure project initiation and financing and is based on international research conducted by the University of Melbourne, Universitas Indonesia and Universitas Gadjah Mada. The volume opens with a macroscopic perspective outlining the broader economic situations confronting Indonesia and Australia before adopting a more microscopic perspective to closely examine the issues surrounding major infrastructure investment in both countries. Detailed case studies are provided, key challenges are identified and evidence based solutions are offered. These solutions respond to such topical issues as how to overcome delays in infrastructure project initiation, how to enhance project decision making for the selection and evaluation of projects, how to improve overall efficiency in the arrangement of project finance and governance and how to increase the return provided by investment in infrastructure. Special focus is given to proposed improvements to the port cities of Indonesia in the areas of major infrastructure project governance, policies, engagement, operation and processes. By rigorously investigating the economic, transport, finance and policy aspects of infrastructure investment, this book will be a valuable resource for policy makers and government officials in Indonesia and Australia, infrastructure investment organisations and companies involved in exporting services between Indonesia and Australia. This book will also be of interest to researchers and students of infrastructure planning and financing, setting a solid foundation for subsequent investigations of financing options for large scale infrastructure developments.
