Leonardo Da Vinci Franc'oise Viatte,2005 Watermarks Leslie A. Geddes,2020-08-25 An exploration of depictions and use of water within Renaissance Italy and especially in the work of polymath Leonardo da Vinci Both a practical necessity and a powerful symbol water presents one of the most challenging problems in visual art due to its formlessness clarity and mutability In Renaissance Italy it was a nearly inexhaustible subject of inquiry for artists engineers and architects alike it represented an element to be productively harnessed and a force of untamed nature Watermarks places the depiction and use of water within an intellectual history of early modern Italy examining the parallel technological and aesthetic challenges of mastering water and the scientific and artistic practices that emerged in response to them Focusing primarily on the wide ranging work of Leonardo da Vinci 1452 1519 at once an artist scientist and inventor Leslie Geddes shows how the deployment of artistic media such as ink and watercolor closely correlated with the engineering challenges of controlling water in the natural world For da Vinci and his peers she argues drawing was an essential form of visual thinking Geddes analyses a wide range of da Vinci s subject matter including machine drawings water management schemes and depictions of the natural landscape and demonstrates how drawing as an intellectual practice a form of scientific investigation and a visual representation constituted a distinct mode of problem solving integral to his understanding of the natural environment Throughout Geddes draws important connections between works by da Vinci that have long been overlooked the artistic and engineering practices of his day and critical questions about the nature of seeing and depicting the almost unseeable during the early modern period

Origins, Imitation, Conventions James S. Ackerman, 2024-03-19 Twelve studies by eminent art historian James S Ackerman This collection contains studies written by art historian James Ackerman over the past decade Whereas Ackerman s earlier work assumed a development of the arts as they responded to social economic political and cultural change his recent work reflects the poststructural critique of the presumption of progress that characterized Renaissance and modernist history and criticism In this book he explores the tension between the authority of the past which may act not only as a restraint but as a challenge and stimulus and the potentially liberating gift of invention He examines the ways in which artists and writers on art have related to ancestors and to established modes of representation as well as to contemporary experiences The origins studied here include the earliest art history and criticism the beginnings of architectural drawing in the Middle Ages and Renaissance Leonardo Da Vinci s sketches for churches the first in the Renaissance to propose supporting domes on sculpted walls and piers and the first architectural photographs Imitation refers to artistic achievements that in part depended on the imitation of forms established in practices outside the fine arts such as ancient Roman rhetoric and print media Conventions like language facilitate communication between the artist and viewer but are both more universal understood across cultures and more fixed resisting variation that might diminish their clarity The three categories are closely linked throughout the book as most acts of representation partake to some degree of all three
