19th century In the English speaking world the novel is usually referred to by its original French title However several alternatives have been used including The Miserables The Wretched The Miserable Ones The Poor Ones The Wretched Poor The Victims and The Dispossessed Beginning in 1815 and culminating in the 1832 June Rebellion in Paris the novel follows the lives and interactions of several characters particularly the struggles of ex convict Jean Valjean and his experience of redemption Examining the nature of law and grace the novel elaborates upon the history of France the architecture and urban design of Paris politics moral philosophy antimonarchism justice religion and the types and nature of romantic and familial love Les Mis rables has been popularized through numerous adaptations for the stage television and film including a musical and a film adaptation of that musical Upton Sinclair described the novel as one of the half dozen greatest novels of the world and remarked that Hugo set forth the purpose of Les Mis rables in the Preface So long as there shall exist by reason of law and custom a social condemnation which in the face of civilization artificially creates hells on earth and complicates a destiny that is divine with human fatality so long as the three problems of the age the degradation of man by poverty the ruin of women by starvation and the dwarfing of childhood by physical and spiritual night are not solved so long as in certain regions social asphyxia shall be possible in other words and from a yet more extended point of view so long as ignorance and misery remain on earth books like this cannot be useless Towards the end of the novel Hugo explains the work s overarching structure The book which the reader has before him at this moment is from one end to the other in its entirety and details a progress from evil to good from injustice to justice from falsehood to truth from night to day from appetite to conscience from corruption to life from bestiality to duty from hell to heaven from nothingness to God The starting point matter destination the soul The hydra at the beginning the angel at the end Les Misérables - Volume II - Cosette Victor Hugo,2009 Classic from the year 2009 in the subject Romance Languages French Literature language English abstract BOOK SIXTH LE PETIT PICPUS CHAPTER I NUMBER 62 RUE PETIT PICPUS Nothing half a century ago more resembled every other carriage gate than the carriage gate of Number 62 Rue Petit Picpus This entrance which usually stood ajar in the most inviting fashion permitted a view of two things neither of which have anything very funereal about them a courtyard surrounded by walls hung with vines and the face of a lounging porter Above the wall at the bottom of the court tall trees were visible When a ray of sunlight enlivened the courtyard when a glass of wine cheered up the porter it was difficult to pass Number 62 Little Picpus Street without carrying away a smiling impression of it Nevertheless it was a sombre place of which one had had a glimpse BOOK SEVENTH PARENTHESIS CHAPTER I THE CONVENT AS AN ABSTRACT IDEA This book is a drama whose leading personage is the Infinite Man is the second Such being the case and a convent having happened to be on our road it has been our duty to enter it Why Because the convent which is common to the Orient as well as to the Occident to antiquity as well as to modern times to paganism to Buddhism to Mahometanism as well as to Christianity is one of the optical apparatuses applied by man to the Infinite This is not the place for enlarging disproportionately on certain ideas nevertheless while absolutely maintaining our reserves our restrictions and even our indignations we must say that every time we encounter man in the Infinite either well or ill understood we feel ourselves overpowered with respect There is in the synagogue in the mosque in the pagoda in the wigwam a hideous side which we execrate and a sublime side which we adore What a contemplation for the mind and what endless food for thought is the reverberation of God upon the human wall

Javert was on his scent understood that he and Cosette were lost if they returned to Paris Then the new storm which had just burst upon him had stranded him in this cloister Jean Valjean had henceforth but one thought to remain there Now for an unfortunate man in his position this convent was both the safest and the most dangerous of places the most dangerous because as no men might enter there if he were discovered it was a flagrant offence and Jean Valjean would find but one step intervening between the convent and prison the safest because if he could manage to get himself accepted there and remain there who would ever seek him in such a place To dwell
