L'empire des signes Roland Barthes, 1970      Signs of Humanity / L'homme et ses signes Gérard Deledalle, Michel Balat, Janice Deledalle-Rhodes, 2019-05-20 No detailed description available for Signs of Humanity L homme et ses signes

Reading Boyishly Carol Mavor, 2007 Study of nostalgic representations of the maternal the home and childhood in the literature and photographs of early 20th century artists      Poststructuralism and Postcoloniality Jane Hiddleston, 2010-01-01 This book explores the relation between poststructuralist thought and postcoloniality and identifies in that interaction the expression of a particular anxiety concerning the form of theoretical writing Many so called poststructuralist thinkers such as Derrida Cixous Lyotard Barthes Kristeva and Spivak have turned their attention at some point in their career towards questions either of postcolonialism or of cultural domination and difference For all these thinkers however a reflection on such questions has generated a sense of unease concerning the assumed neutrality of theoretical discourse and the inevitable subjective or autobiographical investments of the writing self The book argues that this anxiety betrays an unprecedented lucidity concerning the particular challenges of writing about ourselves and others at a time of postcolonial upheaval      Interdisciplinary Barthes Diana Knight, 2020-02-07 Interdisciplinary Barthes addresses the enduring stimulus that Barthes offers to intellectually adventurous work across the human sciences It contextualises his creative engagements with ethnology historiography philosophy ethics music photography and literature and traces the distinctive ways which he unsettled disciplinary boundaries      Vues sur "L'empire des signes" Roland Abrecht, 1979

Ethnography in French Literature Buford Norman, 1996      Henri Michaux Nina Parish, 2007 Henri Michaux is both a recognised poet and visual artist arguably one of the greatest double artists of the twentieth century This book presents the first detailed examination of a particular interdisciplinary aspect of his production namely the innovative experimentation with signs contained in four works Mouvements Par la voie des rythmes Saisir and Par des traits Questions arise concerning their literary and visual status as in their attempt to render interior rhythm and dynamism they occupy an interstitial space between writing and drawing between the book and the canvas between the Western alphabet and Chinese characters This study addresses these questions by analysing the conception production and reception of Michaux's signs and the literary and artistic contexts in which they were produced      The Ideology of Genre Thomas O. Beebee, 1994 In a series of comparative essays on a range of texts embracing both high and popular culture from the early modern era to the contemporary period The Ideology of Genre counters both formalists and advocates of the if genres exist on the other hand then they exist not as essences but as differences and thus those places within and between texts where genres collide reveal the connections between generic status interpretive strategy ideology and the use value of language      Everyday Life Michael Sheringham, 2006-03-09 In the last twenty years the concept of the quotidien or the everyday has been prominent in contemporary French culture and in British and American cultural studies This book provides the first comprehensive analytical survey of the whole field of approaches to the everyday It offers firstly a historical perspective demonstrating the importance of mainstream and dissident Surrealism the indispensable contribution over a 20 year period 1960 80 of four major figures Henri Lefebvre Roland Barthes Michel de Certeau and Georges Perec and the recent proliferation of works that investigate everyday experience Secondly it establishes the framework of philosophical ideas on which discourses on the everyday depend but which they characteristically subvert Thirdly it comprises searching analyses of works in a variety of genres including fiction the essay poetry theatre film photography and the visual arts consistently stressing how explorations of the everyday tend to question and combine genres in richly creative ways By demonstrating the enduring contribution of Perec and others and exploring the Surrealist inheritance the book proposes a genealogy for the remarkable upsurge of interest in the everyday since the 1980s A second main objective is to raise questions about the dimension of experience addressed by artists and thinkers when they invoke the quotidien or related concepts Does the everyday refer to an objective content defined by particular activities or is it best thought of in terms of rhythm repetition festivity ordinariness the generic the obvious the given Are there events or acts that are uniquely everyday or is the quotidien a way of thinking about events and acts in the here and now as opposed to the longer term What techniques or genres are best suited to conveying the nature of everyday life The book explores these questions in a comparative spirit drawing new parallels between the work of numerous writers and artists including Andr Breton Raymond Queneau Walter Benjamin Michel Leiris Maurice Blanchot Michel Foucault Stanley Cavell Annie Ernaux Jacques R da and Sophie Calle

Tokyoids Francois Blanciak, 2022-09-13 A photographic survey of the robotic face of Tokyo buildings and an argument that robot aesthetics plays a central role in architectural history In Tokyoids architect Fran ois Blanciak surveys the robotic faces omnipresent in Tokyo buildings offering an architectural taxonomy based not on the usual variables size material historical style but on the observable expressions of buildings Are the eyes windows twinkling the mouth door laughing Is that balcony a howl of distress Investigating robot aesthetics through his photographs of fifty buildings Blanciak argues that the robot face originated in architecture before the birth of robotics and has played a central role in architectural history Blanciak first puts the robot face into historical perspective examining the importance of the face in architectural theory and demonstrating that the construction of architecture s emblematic portraits triggered the emergence of a robot aesthetics He then explores the emotions conveyed by the photographed buildings robot faces in chapters titled Awe Wrath Mirth Pain Angst and Hunger As he does so he considers among other things the architectural relevance of Tokyo s ordinary buildings the repression of the figural in contemporary architecture an aesthetic of dismemberment linked to the structure of the Japanese language and local building design and the influence of automation technology upon human interaction Part photographic survey part theoretical inquiry Tokyoids upends the usual approach to robotics in architecture by considering not the automation of architectural output but the aesthetic properties of the robot

cannot compute one must poetize this essay theorizes the extraordinary regimes of human mental experience by putting the emphasis on poetry Poetry grants us the ability to move beyond the limits of thought and to explore the beyond of cognition It teaches us to think differently An elliptic response to Wittgenstein s point of arrival in the Tractatus this book is first and foremost an interdisciplinary study of poetry drawing on literary theory philosophy and cognitive science The work conducted on minds and brains over the last decades in psychology artificial intelligence or neuroscience cannot be ignored if as humanists we are ever interested in the way we think Thus a constant dialogue with the positive examination of cognition serves to better situate the normal regimes of thought and to underline the other mental possibilities that literature opens up This essay shows that poetry a very widespread and possibly universal phenomenon among humans arises through syntactic structures cognitive binding and mental regulations but that in going through them it also exceeds them The best poems then are not only thought experiments but actual thinking experiments for the unthinkable They expand the usual semantics of natural languages they singularly deploy the rhetorical armature of speech They tend to exceed their own algorithms made of iterations and linguistic re organizations They are often reflexive strange cognitively dissonant They provide detachable movable and livable significations to our selves The literary scope of this book is more than global it is uniquely broad and comparative encompassing dozens of different traditions oral or written from all continents from Ancient times to the contemporary era with some thirty specific readings of texts ranging from Sophocles to Gertrude Stein from Wang Wei to Aim C saire or from cuneiform tablet to rap music

Critical Theory for Library and Information Science

Gloria J. Leckie, Lisa M. Given, John E. Buschman, 2010-07-26 This text provides an overview of major critical theorists from across disciplines including the humanities social sciences and education that discusses the importance of these critical perspectives for the advancement of LIS research and scholarship The practical application of library and information science is based upon 75 years of critical theory and thought Therefore it is essential for students and faculty in LIS to be familiar with the work of a wide range of critical theorists The aim of Critical Theory for Library and Information Science Exploring the Social from Across the Disciplines is to provide a comprehensive introduction to the critical theorists important to the LIS audience and to give insights into how such theory can be incorporated into actual LIS research and practice This book consists of chapters on individual critical theorists ranging from Aglietta to Habermas to Spivak written by an international group of library and information science scholars Each chapter provides an overview of the theoretical stance and contributions of the theorist as well as relevant critical commentary This book will be particularly valuable as a reference text of core readings for those pursuing doctoral or masters level degrees in LIS
