National Research Council,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Space Studies Board,Division on Earth and Life Studies,Ocean Studies Board,Committee on Assessing Requirements for Sustained Ocean Color Research and Operations,2011-12-15 The ocean is a fundamental component of the earth s biosphere It covers roughly 70 percent of Earth s surface and plays a pivotal role in the cycling of life s building blocks such as nitrogen carbon oxygen and sulfur The ocean also contributes to regulating the climate system Most of the primary producers in the ocean comprise of microscopic plants and some bacteria and these photosynthetic organisms phytoplankton form the base of the ocean s food web Monitoring the health of the ocean and its productivity is critical to understanding and managing the ocean s essential functions and living resources Because the ocean is so vast and difficult for humans to explore satellite remote sensing of ocean color is currently the only way to observe and monitor the biological state of the surface ocean globally on time scales of days to decades Ocean color measurements reveal a wealth of ecologically important characteristics including chlorophyll concentration the rate of phytoplankton photosynthesis sediment transport dispersion of pollutants and responses of oceanic biota to long term climate changes Continuity of satellite ocean color data and associated climate research products are presently at significant risk for the U S ocean color community Assessing Requirements for Sustained Ocean Color Research and Operations aims to identify the ocean color data needs for a broad range of end users develop a consensus for the minimum requirements and outline options to meet these needs on a sustained basis The report assesses lessons learned in global ocean color remote sensing from the SeaWiFS MODIS era to guide planning for acquisition of future global ocean color radiance data to support U S research and operational needs      First Lessons in Geography James Monteith,1873 Geography and history texts

Indian Ocean Region* Attri, V.N.,Bohler-Mulleris, Narnia,2018-08-03 As humanity enters the Anthropocene epoch the oceans are more at risk than ever before as a result of the increased exploitation of its resources The Indian Ocean is the third largest ocean in the world comprising 20% of the water on the Earth s surface The sea lanes in the Indian Ocean are among the busiest in the world with more than 80 percent of global seaborne trade in oil transiting through the Indian Ocean and its vital chokepoints and an estimated 40% of the world s offshore oil production comes from the Indian Ocean The importance of this region cannot be underestimated and there is no doubt that there are many opportunities for economic growth and job creation presented by the waters washing the shores of the Indian Ocean Rim In order to ensure a desirable future for humanity it is necessary to make use of the ocean s resources in a sustainable and responsible manner Climate change is affecting the Indian Ocean negatively placing a strain on the ability to ensure food security and damaging the economies of small island states that depend on fisheries and aquaculture for their livelihoods Increasing ocean temperatures and ocean acidification are taking a toll on ecosystems This book is the first of its kind providing fresh insights into the various aspects and impacts of the Blue Economy in the Indian Ocean Region from shifting paradigms to an accounting framework gender dynamics the law of the sea and renewable energy this handbook aims at increasing awareness of the Blue Economy in the Indian Ocean Region and to provide evidence to policy makers in the region to make informed decisions The contributions are from a mixture of disciplines by scholars and experts from seven countries      Workshop on Improving Regional Ocean Governance in the United States, December 9, 2002, Hotel Washington, Washington D.C. ,2003 Workshop addressed these themes diversity of regional ocean contexts in the U S and the major ocean and coastal problems in each region key issues in regional ocean governance lessons from existing efforts at regional ocean governance in the U S and other countries major options for improving ocean governance in the U S and desirable features of a regional ocean governance system The use of marine protected areas MPA networks in a regional ocean governance context is emphasized by the participants
