Punishment Mark Tunick, 1915 What actions should be punished Should plea bargaining be allowed How should sentencing be determined In this original penetrating study Mark Tunick explores not only why society punishes wrongdoing but also how it implements punishment Contending that the theory and practice of punishment are inherently linked Tunick draws on a broad range of thinkers from the radical criticisms of Nietzsche Foucault and some Marxist theorists through the sociological theories of Durkheim and Girard to various philosophical traditions and the law and economics movement He defends punishment against its radical critics and offers a version of retribution distinct from revenge that holds that we punish not to deter or reform but to mete out just deserts vindicate right and express society's righteous anger Demonstrating first how this theory best accounts for how punishment is carried out he then provides immanent criticism of certain features of our practice that don't accord with the retributive principle Thought provoking and deftly argued Punishment will garner attention and spark debate among political theorists philosophers legal scholars sociologists and
