History Of Cartography History Of Cartography:

History of Cartography Leo Bagrow, 2017-07-12 This illustrated work is intended to acquaint readers with the early maps produced in both Europe and the rest of the world and to tell us something of their development their makers and printers their varieties and characteristics The authors chief concern is with the appearance of maps they exclude any examination of their content or of scientific methods of mapmaking This book ends in the second half of the eighteenth century when craftsmanship was superseded by specialized science and the machine As a history of the evolution of the early map it is a stunning work of art and science This expanded second edition of Bagrow and Skelton s History of Cartography marks the reappearance of this seminal work after a hiatus of nearly a half century As a reprint project undertaken many years after the book last appeared finding suitable materials to work from proved to be no easy task Because of the wealth of monochrome and color plates the book could only be properly reproduced using the original materials Ultimately the authors were able to obtain materials from the original printer Scotchprints or contact films made directly from original plates thus allowing the work to preserve the beauty and clarity of the illustrations Old maps collated with other materials help us to elucidate the course of human history It was not until the eighteenth century however that maps were gradually stripped of their artistic decoration and transformed into plain specialist sources of information based upon measurement Maps are objects of historical artistic and cultural significance and thus collecting them seems to need no justification simply enjoyment

The New Nature of Maps J. B. Harley, 2002-10-03 In these essays the author draws on ideas in art history literature philosophy and the study of visual culture to subvert the traditional positivist model of cartography and replace it with one grounded in an iconological and semiotic theory of the nature of maps The World Through Maps John R.

Short, 2003 An illustrated history of maps and mapmaking including reproductions of 200 antique maps Mapping the World Ralph E. Ehrenberg, 2006 This book highlights more than a hundred maps from every era and every part of the world

Organized chronologically they display an astonishing variety of cartographic styles and techniques They range from priceless artistic masterworks like the 1507 Waldseemüller world map the first to use the name America to such practical artifacts as a Polynesian stick chart a creation of bent twigs seashells and coconut palms that was nevertheless capable of guiding an outrigger canoe safely across thousands of miles of trackless and seemingly endless ocean Some like the portolans or sea charts of the Age of Discovery were closely guarded state secrets that shaped the rise and fall of empires others circulated widely and showed such fabled routes as the Silk Road across western Asia and the Oregon and Santa Fe Trails that opened up the American West Jacket Maps and Their Makers Gerald Roe Crone, 1968

Map Worlds Will C. van den Hoonaard, 2013-09-21 Map Worlds plots a journey of discovery through the world of women map makers from the golden age of cartography in the sixteenth century Low Countries to tactile maps in contemporary Brazil Author Will C van den Hoonaard examines the history of women in the profession sets out the situation of women in technical fields and cartography related organizations and outlines the challenges they face in their careers Map Worlds explores women as colourists in early times describes the major houses of cartographic production and delves into the economic function of intermarriages among cartographic houses and families It relates how in later centuries working from the margins women produced maps to record painful tribal memories or sought to remedy social injustices Much later one woman so changed the way we think about continents that the shift has been likened to the Copernican revolution Other women created order and wonder about the lunar landscape and still others turned the art and science of making maps inside out exposing the hidden unconscious and subliminal text of maps Shared by all these map makers are themes of social justice and making maps work for the betterment of humanity

Cartography Matthew H. Edney, 2019-04-12 In his most ambitious work to date Edney questions the very concept of cartography to argue that this flawed ideal has hobbled the study of maps Susan Schulten author of A History of America in 100 Maps Over the past four decades the volumes published in the landmark History of Cartography series have both chronicled and encouraged scholarship about maps and mapping practices across time and space As the current director of the project that has produced these volumes Matthew H Edney has a unique vantage point for understanding what cartography has come to mean and include In this book Edney disavows the term cartography rejecting the notion that maps represent an undifferentiated category of objects for study Rather than treating maps as a single unified group he argues scholars need to take a processual approach that examines specific types of maps sea charts versus thematic maps for example in the context of the unique circumstances of their production circulation and consumption To illuminate this bold argument Edney chronicles precisely how the ideal of cartography that has developed in the West since 1800 has gone astray By exposing the flaws in this ideal his book challenges everyone who studies maps and mapping practices to reexamine their approach to the topic The study of cartography will never be the same An intellectually bracing and marvellously provocative account of how the mythical ideal of cartography developed over time and in the process distorted our understanding of maps Times Higher Education Cartography The Ideal and Its History offers both a sharp critique of current practice and a call to reorient the field of map studies A landmark contribution K ren Wigen coeditor of Time in Maps The History of Cartography, Volume 4 Matthew H.
