Bring History and Civics to Life Karalee Wong Nakatsuka,Laurel Aguilar-Kirchhoff,2022 This user friendly guide will empower and equip teachers to take a fun interactive approach to using technology to teach history and civics For years history and civics have been put on the back burner as schools focus on subjects like math science and English language arts Although all U S states have standards for the teaching of history there s a lack of consistency when it comes to teaching civics Today we see evidence of declining levels of civic engagement which is sadly reinforced as our educational institutions fail to prioritize history and civics education while at the same time they often blame students for their lack of knowledge Amid this backdrop how can educators better prepare their students to become engaged informed and empathetic citizens One way is by harnessing the power of digital learning to make history come alive for students establishing a climate and culture that encourages students to be effective collaborators and lifelong learners who care about and contribute to society With this book two dynamic award winning educators draw clear connections between history civics community and technology in meaningful and actionable ways to deepen students understanding of democratic processes and civic engagement Using edtech and instructional design as entry points the book highlights pedagogically sound practices to build critical thinking skills and offers classroom examples from a wide range of educators to show how to implement these strategies in the classroom The book illustrates how to use educational technology as a means to inspire and enable students to become empathetic informed citizens Emphasizes historiography and critical thinking skills across the curriculum and broader community Demonstrates how to integrate digital learning tools and strategies across history curriculum Provides guidance on amplifying student voice and inspiring student civic engagement with students as knowledge constructors and global citizens Prioritizes equity in learning by highlighting accessibility features of educational technology tools and implementation strategies to benefit all learners In these pages you ll discover how to use educational technology to help students recognize themselves in history and experience the world and learn in ways that only technology allows Audience Grades 4 12 history social science and civics teachers

Collaboration and the Future of Education Gordon Andrews, Wilson J. Warren, James Cousins, 2015-10-08

Current educational reforms have given rise to various types of educational Taylorism which encourage the creation of efficiency models in pursuit of a unified way to teach In history education curricula this has been introduced through scripted textbook based programs such as Teacher Curriculum Institute s History Alive and completely online curricula They include the jargon of authentic methods such as primary sources cooperative learning differentiated instruction and access to technology yet the craft of teaching is removed and an experience that should be marked by discovery and reflection is replaced with comparatively empty processes This volume provides systematic models and examples of ways that history teachers can compete with and effectively halt this transformation The alternatives the authors present are based on collaborative models that address the art of teaching for pre service and practicing secondary history teachers as well as collegiate history educators Relying on original research and a maturing body of secondary literature on historical thinking this book illuminates how collaboration can create real historical learning

The Teaching American History Project Rachel G. Ragland, Kelly A. Woestman, 2010-05-26

The premise of the Teaching American History TAH project a discretionary grant program funded under the U S Department of Education s Elementary and Secondary Education Act is that in order to teach history better teachers need to know more history Unique among professional development programs in emphasizing specific content to be taught over a particular pedagogical approach TAH grants assist schools in implementing scientifically based research methods for improving the quality of instruction professional development and teacher education in American history Illustrating the diversity of these programs as they have been implemented in local education agencies throughout the nation this collection of essays and research reports from TAH participants provides models for historians teachers teacher educators and others interested in the teaching and learning of American History and presents examples of lessons learned from a cross section of TAH projects Each chapter presents a narrative of innovation documenting collaboration between classroom community and the academy that gives immediate and obvious relevance to the teaching and learning process of American history By sharing these narratives this book expands the impact of emerging practices from individual TAH projects to reach a larger audience across the nation
