To Test or Not To Test Doris Teichler Zallen, 2008-09-29 Tests are a standard part of modern medicine We willingly screen our blood urine vision and hearing and submit to a host of other exams with names so complicated that we can only refer to them by their initials PET ECG CT and MRI Genetic tests of our risks for disease are the latest trend in medicine touted as an approach to informed and targeted treatment They offer hope for some but also raise medical ethical and psychological concerns for many including when genetic information is worth having To Test or Not to Test arms readers with questions that should be considered before they pursue genetic screening Am I at higher risk for a disorder Can genetic testing give me useful information Is the timing right for testing Do the benefits of having the genetic information outweigh the problems that testing can bring Determining the answers to these questions is no easy task In this highly readable book Doris Teichler Zallen provides a template that can guide individuals and families through the decision making process and offers additional resources where they can gain more information She shares interviews with genetic specialists doctors and researchers as well as the personal stories of nearly 100 people who have faced genetic testing decisions Her examples focus on genetic testing for four types of illnesses breast ovarian cancer different disorders but closely connected colon cancer late onset Alzheimer s disease and hereditary hemochromatosis From the more common diseases to the rare hereditary conditions we learn what genetic screening is all about and what it can tell us about our risks Given that we are now bombarded with ads in magazines and on television hawking the importance of pursuing genetic testing it is critical that we approach this tough issue with an arsenal of good information To Test or Not to Test is an essential consumer tool kit for the genetic decision making process Loose Leaf Version for Human Genetics Ricki Lewis, Dr., 2014-09-19 Human
