Human Rights An Anthropological Reader:

Human Rights Mark Goodale, 2008-10-20 This innovative reader brings together key works that demonstrate the important and unique contributions anthropologists have made to the understanding and practice of human rights over the last 60 years. Draws on a range of intellectual and methodological approaches to reveal both the ambiguities and potential of the postwar human rights project. Brings together essays by both contemporary luminaries and seminal figures to provide a rich introduction to the subject. Supplemented with selected international human rights documents and links to websites on human rights.

Human Rights Education and the Politics of Knowledge Joanne Coysh, 2017-02-24 Around the world there are a myriad of NGOs using human rights education (HRE) as a tool of community empowerment with the firm belief that it will help people improve their lives. One way of understanding these processes is that they translate universal human rights speak using messages and symbols which make them relevant to people's daily lives and culturally resonant. However, an alternative more radical perspective is that these processes should engage individuals in modes of critical inquiry into the ways that existing power structures maintain the status quo and control not only how we understand and speak about social inequality and injustice but also act on it. This book is a critical inquiry into the production, distribution, and consumption of HRE and how the discourse is constructed historically, socially, and politically through global institutions and local NGO practice. The book begins with the premise that HRE is composed of theories of human rights and education both of which are complex and multifaceted. However, the book demonstrates how over time a dominant discourse of HRE constructed by the United Nations institutional framework has come to prominence and the ways it is reproduced and reinforced through the practice of intermediary NGOs engaged in HRE activities with community groups. Drawing on socio-legal scholarship, it offers a new theoretical and political framework for addressing how human rights pedagogy, knowledge, and power can be analysed between the global and local by connecting the critical but well-trodden theories of human rights to insights on critical pedagogy. It uses critical discourse analysis and ethnographic research to investigate the practice of NGOs engaged in HRE using contextual evidence and findings from fieldwork with NGOs and communities in Tanzania.

Human Rights and Social Theory Lydia Morris, 2013-10-09 This book examines the contribution social theory can make to understanding different human rights which operate in a variety of settings. Including an introduction to the theoretical issues raised by the study of rights, it covers a range of individual and collective rights illuminating the relationship between social theory and human rights      Human Rights in Thailand Don F. Selby, 2018-04-04 When the Thai state violently suppressed a massive prodemocracy protest in Black May 1992 it initiated an unprecedented period in Thailand The military shamed and chagrined withdrew from political life and the democracy movement had more latitude than ever before in Thailand's history gaining an institutional presence previously unseen This extraordinary moment created a unique opportunity for the human rights movement to emerge for the first time on a national scale in Thailand Don F Selby examines this era of Thai political history to determine how and why the time was ripe for such developments By placing greater emphasis on human rights as an anthropological concern he focuses on the understandings that social actors draw from human rights struggles He concludes that what gave emergent human rights in Thailand their shape force and trajectories are the ways that advocates engaged contested or reworked debates around Buddhism in its relationship to rule and social structure political struggle in relation to a narrative of Thai democracy that disavowed egalitarian movements and traditional standards of social stratification and face saving practices In this way human rights ideals in Thailand emerge less from global local translation and more as a matter of negotiation within everyday forms of sociality morality and politics
