

BEETEE

I need you here to protect me. And the tree.

PEETA

Katniss is pregnant. I want to go with her.

BEETEE

There are two Careers out there. I need two guards.

PEETA

Finnick can guard you.

Beetee hesitates, looks at Peeta over his glasses.

BEETEE

You agreed to keep me alive until Midnight.

FINNICK

Is there a problem here?

An awkward stand off. Katniss breaks it.

KATNISS

No. We're good.

Peeta is uneasy. Katniss goes and gives him a long kiss.

KATNISS (CONT'D)

See you at midnight.

JOHANNA

Let's go, lover. I'll start. You be look-out.

She starts unravelling the wire. Katniss pulls an arrow from her quiver, threads her bow, follows Johanna off.

EXT. JUNGLE - NIGHT

QUICK CUTS -- They move fast down hill. Johanna lets the coil unspool. Katniss is on guard, bow ready to shoot.

It is dark, claustrophobic, spooky -- impossible to see more than a few yards through the dense shadowy jungle.

Johanna stops a moment, glancing around, speaking sotto.

JOHANNA

This is taking too long.

Justice in Young Adult Speculative Fiction Marek C. Oziwicz, 2015-04-17 This book is the first to offer a justice focused cognitive reading of modern YA speculative fiction in its narrative and filmic forms It links the expansion of YA speculative fiction in the 20th century with the emergence of human and civil rights movements with the communitarian revolution in conceptualizations of justice and with spectacular advances in cognitive sciences as applied to the examination of narrative fiction Oziwicz argues that complex ideas such as justice are processed by the human mind as cognitive scripts that scripts when narrated take the form of multiply indexable stories and that YA speculative fiction is currently the largest conceptual testing ground in the forging of justice consciousness for the 21st century world Drawing on recent research in the cognitive and evolutionary sciences Oziwicz explains how poetic retributive restorative environmental social and global types of justice have been represented in narrative fiction from 19th century folk and fairy tales through 21st century fantasy dystopia and science fiction Suggesting that the appeal of these and other nonmimetic genres is largely predicated on the dream of justice Oziwicz theorizes new justice scripts as conceptual tools essential to help humanity survive the qualitative leap toward an environmentally conscious culturally diversified global world This book is an important contribution to studies of children's and YA speculative fiction adding a new perspective to discussions about the educational as well as social potential of nonmimetic genres It demonstrates that the justice imperative is very much alive in YA speculative fiction creating new visions of justice relevant to contemporary challenges

Topologies of the Classical World in Children's Fiction Claudia Nelson, Anne Morey, 2019-10-24 Beginning with Rudyard Kipling and Edith Nesbit and concluding with best selling series still ongoing at the time of writing this volume examines works of twentieth and twenty first century children s literature that incorporate character types settings and narratives derived from the Greco Roman past Drawing on a cognitive poetics approach to reception studies it argues that authors typically employ a limited and powerful set of spatial metaphors palimpsest map and fractal to organize the classical past for preteen and adolescent readers Palimpsest texts see the past as a collection of strata in which each new era forms a layer superimposed upon a foundation laid earlier map texts use the metaphor of the mappable journey to represent a protagonist s process of maturing while gaining knowledge of the self and or the world fractal texts in which small parts of the narrative are thematically identical to the whole present the past in a way that implies that history is infinitely repeatable While a given text may embrace multiple metaphors in presenting the past associations between dominant metaphors genre and outlook emerge from the case studies examined in each chapter revealing remarkable thematic continuities in how the past is represented and how agency is attributed to protagonists each model it is suggested uses the classical past to urge and thus perhaps to develop a particular approach to life
