Practicing Intersubjectively Peter Buirski, 2007-09 Practicing Intersubjectively describes how the intersubjective systems perspective informs shapes and guides the psychotherapeutic process Using extensive clinical case material Buirski illustrates the way an intersubjective systems sensibility informs and enriches clinical practice The intersubjective systems perspective views each treatment as exquisitely context sensitive This means that the person who comes for therapy would present differently to different therapists and the two of them would construct different processes Therapists themselves are not interchangeable and the intersubjective field that the two participants create together would be quite different from the field created by any other pair Practicing Intersubjectively with the focus on attuning and articulating to the contextual construction of personal worlds of experience enables a different therapy process to unfold than occurs in traditional 1 person authority based treatment approaches and is uniquely suited to working with people from diverse cultural backgrounds and those suffering from such challenging concerns as trauma and prejudice ople from diverse cultural backgrounds and those suffering from such challenging concerns as trauma and prejudice ople from diverse cultural backgrounds and those suffering from such challenging concerns as trauma and prejudice ople from diverse cultural backgrounds and those suffering from such challenging concerns as trauma and prejudice

Islam as Critique Khurram Hussain, 2019-09-05 What would it mean to imagine Islam as an immanent critique of the West Sayyid Ahmad Khan lived in a time of great tribulation for Muslim India under British rule By examining Khan s work as a critical expression of modernity rooted in the Muslim experience of it Islam as Critique argues that Khan is essential to understanding the problematics of modern Islam and its relationship to the West The book re imagines Islam as an interpretive strategy for investigating the modern condition and as an engaged alternative to mainstream Western thought Using the life and work of nineteenth century Indian Muslim polymath Khan 1817 1898 it identifies Muslims as a viable resource for both critical intervention in important ethical debates of our times and as legitimate participants in humanistic discourses that underpin a just global order Islam as Critique locates Khan within a broader strain in modern Islamic thought that is neither a rejection of the West nor a wholesale acceptance of it The author calls this Critical Islam By bringing Khan s critical engagement with modernity into conversation with similar critical analyses of the modern by Reinhold Niebuhr Hannah Arendt and Alasdair MacIntyre the author shows how Islam can be read as critique

Legal Realism to Law in Action William Clune, 2021-12-16 This is a book of papers and interviews about innovative law school courses developed by faculty of the Wisconsin Law School from 1950 to 1970 that forged a path from legal realism to law and social science. These courses took a law in action approach to the study of law which became a signature feature of the school's tradition from that time to the present day. The Legal Realists of the 1920s and 30s taught that the law that mattered was the law in action as applied by ordinary officials and experienced by ordinary people. But they mostly failed to get their program adopted as part of professional education alongside the study of appellate cases. Only at Wisconsin thanks to a cluster of great scholar teachers in Willard Hurst, Frank Remington, Herman Goldstein, Stewart Macaulay, Bill Whitford and their collaborators has the Realist vision been fully and splendidly realized in law teaching. This is the story of that thrilling experiment. Robert W. Gordon, Professor of Law Emeritus, Stanford University; Chancellor Kent, Professor Emeritus of Law and Legal History, Yale Law School. This book is a must read for anyone interested in the history of the law and society movement and the unique role that the University of Wisconsin Law School has played in that tradition. In a series of essays by and interviews of current and former Wisconsin law teachers, the creativity of Wisconsin's challenge to the traditional legal academy comes alive. Lauren Edelman, Agnes Roddy Robb, Professor of Law and Professor of Sociology, University of California Berkeley. In a time when an increasing number of law schools characterize themselves as bastions of law in action, this volume provides a bracing reminder of a more precise vision. That vision was rooted in the legal realist tradition during an earlier golden age of sociolegal thought at the University of Wisconsin Law School. In this important book, we hear vivid accounts of the innovative law teaching during that time which took realist discoveries seriously in Contracts, Legal Process, Legal History, and Criminal Law. Elizabeth Mertz, Research Professor, American Bar Foundation; John and Rylla Bosshard, Professor Emerita, UW Madison Law School.
