Spiro, Bertram C. Bruce, William F. Brewer, 2017-11-03 Research in cognitive psychology linguistics and artificial intelligence the three disciplines that have the most direct application to an understanding of the mental processes in reading is presented in this multilevel work originally published in 1980 that attempts to provide a systematic and scientific basis for understanding and building a comprehensive theory of reading comprehension The major focus is on understanding the processes involved in the comprehension of written text Underlying most of the contributions is the assumption that skilled reading comprehension requires a coordination of text with context in a way that goes far beyond simply chaining together the meanings of a string of decoded words The topics discussed are divided into five general areas Global Issues Text Structure Language Knowledge of the World and Inference Effects of Prior Language Experience and Comprehension Strategies and Facilitators and represent a broad base of methodology and data that should be of interest not only to those concerned with the reading process but also to basic science researchers in psychology linguistics artificial intelligence and related disciplines National Education ,1973 Mathematics Assessment and Evaluation Thomas A.

Romberg,1992-01-01 Are current testing practices consistent with the goals of the reform movement in school mathematics If not what are the alternatives How can authentic performance in mathematics be assessed These and similar questions about tests and their uses have forced those advocating change to examine the way in which mathematical performance data is gathered and used in American schools This book provides recent views on the issues surrounding mathematics tests such as the need for valid performance data the implications of the Curriculum and Evaluation Standards for School Mathematics for test development the identification of valid items and tests in terms of the Standards the procedures now being used to construct a sample of state assessment tests gender differences in test taking and methods of reporting student achievement

Reading Instruction in America Barbara Ruth Peltzman,2015-09-18 The diversity of student populations in the United States presents educators with many challenges To provide effective reading instruction for the individual student teachers must understand the enormous variety of reading methods and materials that exist and make independent decisions based on their students particular needs Research indicates that educators are often influenced by reading instruction fads that quickly fade making it more challenging to develop a repertoire of teaching strategies in which a teacher may have confidence This book examines a variety of reading methods used in American schools from the 19th to the 21st century and the literature promoting or critiquing them to help teachers become informed decision makers and better meet the needs of students

Day Care, Families, and Stress ,1981 Research in Reading at the Primary Level Doris Virginia Gunderson,1963 The Fluency Construct Kelli D. Cummings,Yaacov Petscher,2015-12-11 This book provides a comprehensive overview of fluency as a construct and its assessment in the context of curriculum based measurement CBM Comparing perspectives from language acquisition reading and mathematics the book parses the vagueness and complexities surrounding fluency concepts and their resulting impact on testing intervention and students educational development Applications of this knowledge in screening and testing ideas for creating more targeted measures and advanced methods for studying fluency data demonstrate the overall salience of fluency within CBM Throughout contributors argue for greater specificity and nuance in isolating skills to be measured and improved and for terminology that reflects those educational
