Decolonizing the History Curriculum in Malaysia and Singapore Kevin Blackburn,ZongLun Wu,2019-05-09 Decolonizing the History Curriculum in Malaysia and Singapore is a unique study in the history of education because it examines decolonization in terms of how it changed the subject of history in the school curriculum of two colonized countries Malaysia and Singapore Blackburn and Wu s book analyzes the transition of the subject of history from colonial education to postcolonial education from the history syllabus upholding the colonial order to the period after independence when the history syllabus became a tool for nation building Malaysia and Singapore are excellent case studies of this process because they once shared a common imperial curriculum in the English language schools that was gradually decolonized to form the basis of the early history syllabuses of the new nation states they were briefly one nation state in the early to mid 1960s The colonial English language history syllabus was decolonized into a national curriculum that was translated for the Chinese Malay and Tamil schools of Malaysia and Singapore By analyzing the causes and consequences of the dramatic changes made to the teaching of history in the schools of Malaya and Singapore as Britain ended her empire in Southeast Asia Blackburn and Wu offer fascinating insights into educational reform the effects of decolonization on curricula and the history of Malaysian and Singaporean education

Climate Change Education Chang Chew Hung,2014-05-09 Climate change is a controversial topic some people assert that climate change is not occurring and others believe that reports are inaccurate that whilst climate change is happening it may not be caused by human activity There are also climate alarmists who use IPCC reports to support their claims that erratic weather patterns are a result of climate change caused by human activity Regardless of these different viewpoints one fact can be agreed upon climate change is a complex subject and there is a need to educate future generations enabling them to deal with the plethora of information and views that they will experience in their lives This book explores what education for climate change entails discussing the concept of Climate Change Education CCE itself how it can be taught in schools and how public education can be carried out It instructs what specific subject matter to teach for CCE and how to evaluate the student learning on the subject Chapters include CCE in the Formal Curriculum Teacher readiness for CCE Assessment for and of CCE Lessons from CCE for Public Education Climate Change Education is an extremely useful resource for anyone involved in educating students on climate change and also for those interested in climate change itself

Education, Culture and the Singapore Developmental State Y. Chia,2015-04-07 This book explores the role of education in the formation of the Singapore developmental state The book provides a historical study of citizenship education in Singapore whereby a comparative study of history civics and social studies curricula and the politics and policies that underpin them are examined Teaching Chemistry Around the World Björn Risch, 2010 As teachers we often tend to expect other countries to teach chemistry in much the same way as we do but educational systems differ widely At Bielefeld University we started a project to analyse the approach to chemical education in different countries from all over the world Teaching Chemistry around the World 25 countries have participated in the project The resulting country studies are presented in this book This book may be seen as a contribution to make the structure of chemistry teaching in numerous countries more transparent and to facilitate communication between these countries Especially in the case of the school subject chemistry which is very unpopular on the one hand and occupies an exceptional position on the other hand due to its relevance to jobs and everyday life and most notably due to its importance for innovation capacity and problem solving we have to learn from each others educational systems Questions of

English Jeanne Gerlach, Annette Patterson, Robin Peel, 2002-11-01 The impact and content of English as a subject on the curriculum is once more the subject of lively debate Questions of English sets out to map the development of English as a subject and how it has come to encompass the diversity of ideas that currently characterise it Drawing on a combination of historical analysis and recent research findings Robin Peel Annette Patterson and Jeanne Gerlach bring together and compare important new insights on curriculum development and teaching practice from England Australia and the United States They also discuss the development of teacher training highlighting the variety of ways in which teachers build their own beliefs and knowledge about English
