The Jews of Iran Houman M. Sarshar, 2014-09-17 Living continuously in Iran for over 2700 years Jews have played an integral role in the history of the country Frequently understood as a passive minority group and often marginalized by the Zoroastrian and succeeding Muslim hegemony the Jews of Iran are instead portrayed in this book as having had an active role in the development of Iranian history society and culture Examining ancient texts objects and art from a wide range of times and places throughout Iranian history as well as the medieval trade routes along which these would have travelled The Jews of Iran offers in depth analysis of the material and visual culture of this community Additionally an exploration of modern novels and accounts of Jewish Iranian women s experiences sheds light on the social history and transformations of the Jews of Iran from the rule of Cyrus the Great c 600 530 BCE to the Iranian Revolution of 1978 9 and onto the present day

By using the examples of women writers such as Gina Barkhordar Nahai and Dalia Sofer the implications of fictional representation of the history of the Jews of Iran and the vital importance of communal memory and tradition to this community are drawn out By examining the representation of identity construction through lenses of religion gender and ethnicity the analysis of these writers work highlights how the writers undermine the popular imagining and imaging of the Jewish other in an attempt to create a new narrative integrating the Jews of Iran into the idea of what it means to be Iranian This long view of the Jewish cultural influence on Iran s social economic political and cultural development makes this book a unique contribution to the field of Judeo Iranian studies and to the study of Iranian history more broadly Japan's physics by showing that all space which consists of objects and distances arises from the same origin manifold of sets. A continuously organized mathematical lattice of topological balls represents the primary substrate named the tessellattice. All fundamental particles arise as local fractal deformations of the tessellattice. The motion of such particulate balls through the tessellattice causes it to deform neighboring cells which generates a cloud of a new kind of spatial excitations named inertons. Thus so called hidden variables introduced in the past by de Broglie, Bohm and Vigier have acquired a sense of real quasiparticles of space. This theory of space unambiguously answers such challenging issues as what is mass, what is charge, what is a photon, what is the wave ψ function, what is a neutrino, what are the nuclear forces and so on. The submicroscopic concept uncovers new peculiar properties of quantum systems especially the dynamics of particles within a section equal to the particle's de Broglie wavelength which are fundamentally impossible for quantum mechanics. This concept thoroughly discussed in the book allows one to study complex problems in quantum optics and quantum electrodynamics in detail to disclose an inner world of particle physics by exposing the structure of quarks and nucleons in real space and to derive gravity as the transfer of local deformations of space by inertons which in turn completely solves the problems of dark matter and dark energy. Inertons have revealed themselves in a number of experiments carried out in condensed media, plasma, nuclear physics and astrophysics which are described in this book together with prospects for future studies in both fundamental and applied physics.

Minorities of Europeanization Hakan Ovunc Ongur, 2014-11-13. What are the societal effects of Europeanization? How successful is the EU's project to create an overarching European identity representative of all its citizens transcending national boundaries and including those previously excluded as national minorities? This study addresses these questions by adapting the Social Identity Theory's (SIT) concept of social identity to the discussions of European identity offering a novel approach that remedies previous definitional and ontological problems of the term. The conceptualization of a European social identity is generated here to invite a reconsideration of conventional understandings of how minorities group identities are formed. Presenting itself as a challenge to nations and nationality, the European integration process has yet to achieve its supra national ideal falling instead into the trap of nationalizing those who are subsumed under the category of minorities in practice, arguably because of a faulty theoretical understanding of the term. The new Others of Europeanization have been chosen specifically to emphasize, despite the EU's united in diversity rhetoric, the marked lack of united destiny and common heritage of selected European nationals. Among these new Others, Russophones in the Baltic states, the Roma people, populations of the Western Balkans, immigrants and guest workers and Muslims residing in European countries have all been excluded from Europe's new social identity. Through in-depth historical analysis, this book aims to correct this problem providing both European studies and broader political science literatures with a new understanding of minorities that is more dynamic both in practice and theory.

Domestic Colonies Barbara Arneil, 2017-10-06 Modern colonization is generally defined as a process by which a state settles and dominates a foreign land and people This book argues that through the nineteenth and into the first half of the twentieth centuries thousands of domestic colonies were proposed and or created by governments and civil society organizations for fellow citizens as opposed to foreigners and within their own borders rather than overseas Such colonies sought to solve every social problem arising within industrializing and urbanizing states Domestic Colonies argues that colonization ought to be seen during this period as a domestic policy designed to solve social problems at home as well as foreign policy designed to expand imperial power Three kind of domestic colonies are analysed in this book labour colonies for the idle poor farm colonies for the mentally ill and disabled and utopian colonies for racial religious and political minorities All of them were justified by an ideology of colonialism that argued if people were segregated in colonies located on empty land and engaged in agrarian labour this would improve both the people and the land Key domestic colonialists analysed in this book include Alexis de Tocqueville Abraham Lincoln Peter Kropotkin Robert Owen and Booker T Washington The turn inward to colony thus requires us to rethink the meaning and scope of colonization and colonialism in modern political theory and practice
