The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2009 Italianissimo Pellegrino Artusi, 1975-11 Unless you aspire to perfection to be in short a Cordon Bleu you do not have to be born with a chef's hat on your head to become a good cook. All you need is to love to cook, pay close attention to details, form the habit of being precise and choose only the finest materials. The best way to learn of course is to work under a capable cook but even without that experience with a book like mine to guide you if you are serious you can learn to cook from the preface. Denise De R me, 1992 Di Palo's Guide to the Essential Foods of Italy Lou Di Palo, Rachel Wharton, 2014-09-09 The ultimate guide to the finest foods of Italy from the oldest most celebrated Italian market in New York City. In the heart of New York City's Little Italy sits Di Palo's, a family owned food shop that has been the treasure of the neighborhood for more than a century. The four generations of Di Palo's who have run this Italian specialty market have made it their mission to bring customers the finest old world selections from Italy: handcrafted mozzarella, buttery prosciutto, estate olive oils, traditional artisanal pastas from throughout the country. Now in one colorful volume Lou Di Palo, great grandson of the founder and steward of the family legacy, shares the vibrant history of this storied establishment and a lifetime of wisdom about the cuisine beloved around the world. Di Palo's Guide to the Essential Foods of Italy takes you on a gourmet excursion through Italy's twenty distinct regions from Sicily to Umbria to Alto Adige. Each chapter highlights a specific food and its rich history along with practical tips for selecting, storing and serving it at home. Many include signature family recipes that have been handed down through the generations including Grandma Mary's Sicilian Caponata and Concetta Di Palo's Meatballs or recipes gathered from trips to Italy over the years such as Trapani Style Salted Sea Bass and Polenta con Formaggio Crucolo Fuso. Readers will discover among many other things the secret to a balsamic vinegar worthy of sharing only with one's closest friends, the proper way to prepare the perfect espresso and the importance of looking for the Denominazione d'Origine Protetta or the Protected Designation of Origin seal which certifies that your food is a traditional regional product.
