Linguistic Meaning (RLE Linguistics A: General Linguistics) Keith Allan, 2014-02-03 Dr Keith Allan presents a coherent consistent and comprehensive account of linguistic meaning centred around an informally presented theory of meaning. It is intended for graduate and undergraduate students of linguistics or any linguist curious about what a theory of meaning should seek to accomplish and the way to achieve that aim. The work assumes that the primary task of a theory of linguistic meaning is to describe the meaning of speech acts. This in turn presupposes a theory of semantics and a theory of prosodic meaning as well as a proper treatment of the co-operative principle, context and background information. These matters are dealt with in detail. The second task of a theory of linguistic meaning is to identify what meaning is to explain the relationships between sense and denotation and to explicate the nature of meaningful properties and meaning relations. These matters are fully covered and the work concludes with a summary of the principle arguments presented.

saturating pronominals or a much richer and fully contextualized logical form This issue will be discussed from several angles Many of the authors are contextualists and the discussion brings out the need to take context into account when one deals with indirect reports both the context of the original utterance and the context of the report It is interesting to see how rich cues and clues can radically transform the reported message assigning illocutionary force and how they can be mobilized to distinguish several voices in the utterance Decoupling the voice of the reporting speaker from that of the reported speaker on the basis of rich contextual clues is an important issue that pragmatic theory has to tackle Articles on the issue of slurs will bring new light to the issue of decoupling responsibility in indirect reporting while others are theoretically oriented and deal with deep problems in philosophy and epistemology

Shakespeare's Dialectic of Hope Hugh Grady, 2022-05-19 Closely examining the relationship between the political and the utopian in five major plays from different phases of Shakespeare's career Hugh Grady shows the dialectical link between the earlier political dramas and the late plays or tragicomedies Reading Julius Caesar and Macbeth from the tragic period alongside The Winter's Tale and Tempest from the utopian end of Shakespeare's career with Antony and Cleopatra acting as a transition Grady reveals how in the late plays Shakespeare introduces a transformative element of hope while never losing a sharp awareness of suffering and death The plays presciently confront dilemmas of an emerging modernity diagnosing and indicting instrumental politics and capitalism as largely disastrous developments leading to an empty world devoid of meaning and community Grady persuasively argues that the utopian vision is a specific dialectical response to these fears and a necessity in worlds of injustice madness and death Common Ground in First

Language and Intercultural Interaction Istvan Kecskes, 2023-03-06 In recent years the traditional approach to common ground as a body of information shared between participants of a communicative process has been challenged Taking into account not only L1 but also intercultural interactions and attempting to bring together the traditional view with the egocentrism based view of cognitive psychologists it has been argued that construction of common ground is a dynamic emergent process It is the convergence of the mental representation of shared knowledge that we activate assumed mutual knowledge that we seek and rapport as well as knowledge that we co construct in the communicative process This dynamic understanding of common ground has been applied in many research projects addressing both L1 and intercultural interactions in recent years As a result several new elements aspects and interpretations of common ground have been identified Some researchers came to view common ground as one component in a complex contextual information structure Others analyzing intercultural interactions pointed out the dynamism of the interplay of core common ground and emergent common ground The book brings together researchers from different angles of pragmatics and communication to examine i what adjustments to the notion of common ground based on L1 communication should be made in the light of research in intercultural communication ii what the relationship is between context situation and common ground and iii how relevant knowledge and content get selected for inclusion into core and emergent common ground Advances in formal Slavic
