Listening To Our Elders Working And Writing For Change:

Listening to Our Elders Samantha Blackmon, Cristina Kirklighter, Steve Parks, 2011-11-01 In 2011 the National Council of Teachers of English NCTE turned one hundred years old But our profession is endlessly beginning constantly transforming itself and its purpose as new voices and identities claim their rights in our classrooms and in our country The recognition of such claims however does not occur without a struggle without collective work Listening to our Elders attempts to capture the history of those collective moments where teachers across grade levels and institutions of higher education organized to insure that the voices heritages and traditions of their students and colleagues were recognized within our professional organizations as a vital part of our classrooms and our discipline In doing so Listening to Our Elders demonstrates this recognition was not always easily given Instead whether the issue was race sexuality class or disability committed activist organizations have often had to push against the existing limits of our field and its organizations to insure a broader sense of common responsibility and humanity was recognized Listening to Our Elders features interviews with Malea Powell Native American Caucus Joyce Rain Anderson Native American Caucus Jeffery Paul Chan Asian American James Hill Black Caucus James Dolmage Committee for Disability Issue in College Composition Geneva Smitherman Language Policy Committee Carlota C rdenas de Dwyer Latino a Caucus Victor Villanueva Latino a Caucus Louise Dunlap Progressive Caucus Karen Hollis Progressive Caucus Louie Crew Queer Caucus William Thelin Working Class Culture and Pedagogy SIG Bill Macauley Working Class Culture and Pedagogy SIG

Becoming International Sadie Shorr-Parks, 2018-09-16 Becoming International Musings on Studying Abroad in America This collection of flash nonfiction chronicles the experiences of international students as they leave home cross

borders and begin their studies in the United States Sometimes humorous often profound their writings illustrate the peculiar process of becoming international All of the authors in this book are international students This collection aims to not only illuminate their experiences but also celebrate the distinct beauty of writing produced by students learning a second language A timely mediation on arriving in America Becoming International Musings on Studying Abroad in America is a perfect companion for those planning to study abroad or anyone interested in creating international spaces on college campuses In exploring the notion of home the authors in this collection evoke familiar themes of homesickness childhood memories and the exciting yet daunting prospect of change Additionally they inform and connect us because not in spite of the unfamiliarities in their experiences from our own And where there are disparities they have created sites for cross cultural learning compassion and acknowledgment of our own privileges Their writing demonstrates that minority students finding themselves in the contact zone of their home and new host cultures can wield their stories to cope with change and negotiate their self identities in generative community building ways Charissa Che University of Utah Arts and Humanities Brenda Jo Brueggemann, 2012-08-02 This volume in The SAGE Reference Series on Disability explores the arts and humanities within the lives of people with disabilities It is one of eight volumes in the cross disciplinary and issues based series which incorporates links from varied fields making up Disability Studies as volumes examine topics central to the lives of individuals with disabilities and their families With a balance of history theory research and application specialists set out the findings and implications of research and practice for others whose current or future work involves the care and or study of those with disabilities as well as for the disabled themselves The presentational style concise and engaging emphasizes accessibility Taken individually each volume sets out the fundamentals of the topic it addresses accompanied by compiled data and statistics recommended further readings a guide to organizations and associations and other annotated resources thus providing the ideal introductory platform and gateway for further study Taken together the series represents both a survey of major disability issues and a guide to new directions and trends and contemporary resources in the field as a whole

Desegregation State Annie S. Mendenhall, 2022-04-15 The only book length study of the ways that postsecondary desegregation litigation and policy affected writing instruction and assessment in US colleges Desegregation State provides a history of federal enforcement of higher education desegregation and its impact on writing programs from 1970 to 1988 Focusing on the University System of Georgia and two of its public colleges in Savannah one a historically segregated white college and the other a historically Black college Annie S Mendenhall shows how desegregation enforcement promoted and shaped writing programs by presenting literacy remediation and testing as critical to desegregation efforts in southern and border states Formerly segregated state university systems crafted desegregation plans that gave them more control over policies for admissions remediation and retention These plans created literacy requirements admissions and graduation tests remedial classes and even writing centers and writing across the curriculum programs that reshaped the landscape of college writing instruction and denied the demands of Black students civil rights activists and historically Black colleges and universities for major changes to university systems This history details the profound influence of desegregation and resistance to desegregation on the ways that writing is taught and assessed in colleges today Desegregation State provides WPAs and writing teachers with a disciplinary history for understanding racism in writing assessment and writing programs Mendenhall brings emerging scholarship on the racialization of institutions into the field showing why writing studies must pay more attention to how writing programs have institutionalized racist literacy ideologies through arguments about student placement individualized writing instruction and writing assessment Dreams and Nightmares Liliana

Velásquez,2017-04-14 At fourteen Liliana Velásquez walked out of her village in Guatemala and headed for the U S border alone On her two thousand mile voyage she was robbed by narcos rode the boxcars of La Bestia and encountered death in the Sonoran Desert Communicating Race, Ethnicity, and Identity in Technical Communication Miriam Williams,Octavio

Pimentel,2016-12-05 The purpose of this book is to move our field's discussion beyond issues of diversity in the practice of technical communication which is certainly important to include discussions of how race and ethnicity inform the production and distribution of technical communication in the United States Equally important this book is an attempt to uncover those communicative practices used to adversely affect historically marginalized groups and identify new practices that can be used to encourage cultural competence within institutions and communities This book like our field is an interdisciplinary effort While all authors have taught or practiced technical communication their backgrounds include studies in technical communication rhetoric and composition creative writing and higher education For the sake of clarity the book is organized into five sections historical representations of race and ethnicity in health and science communication social justice and activism in technical communication considerations of race and ethnicity in social media users right to their own language and communicating identity across borders cultures and disciplines Keywords in Writing Studies Paul Heilker,John

Vandenbergh,2015-02-15 Keywords in Writing Studies is an exploration of the principal ideas and ideals of an emerging academic field as they are constituted by its specialized vocabulary A sequel to the 1996 work Keywords in Composition Studies this new volume traces the evolution of the field's lexicon taking into account the wide variety of theoretical educational professional and institutional developments that have redefined it over the past two decades Contributors address the development transformation and interconnections among thirty six of the most critical terms that make up writing studies Looking beyond basic definitions or explanations they explore the multiple layers of meaning within the terms that writing scholars currently use exchange and question Each term featured is a part of the general disciplinary parlance and each is a highly contested focal point of significant debates about matters of power identity and values Each essay begins with the assumption that its central term is important precisely because its meaning is open and multiplex Keywords in Writing Studies reveals how the key concepts in the field are used and even challenged rather than advocating particular usages and the particular vision of the field that they imply The volume will be of great interest to both graduate students and established scholars

The Oxford Handbook of Indigenous American Literature James Howard Cox, Daniel Heath Justice, 2014 Over the course of the last twenty years Native American and Indigenous American literary studies has experienced a dramatic shift from a critical focus on identity and authenticity to the intellectual cultural political historical and tribal nation contexts from which these Indigenous literatures emerge The Oxford Handbook of Indigenous American Literature reflects on these changes and provides a complete overview of the current state of the field The Handbook's forty three essays organized into four sections cover oral traditions poetry drama non fiction fiction and other forms of Indigenous American writing from the seventeenth through the twenty first century Part I attends to literary histories across a range of communities providing for example analyses of Inuit Chicana o Anishinaabe and M tis literary practices Part II draws on earlier disciplinary and historical contexts to focus on specific genres as authors discuss Indigenous non fiction emergent trans Indigenous autobiography Mexicanoh and Spanish poetry Native drama in the U S and Canada and even a new Indigenous children's literature canon The third section delves into contemporary modes of critical inquiry to expound on politics of place comparative Indigenism trans Indigenism Native rhetoric and the power of Indigenous writing to communities of readers A final section thoroughly explores the geographical breadth and expanded definition of Indigenous American through detailed accounts of literature from Indian Territory the Red Atlantic the far North Yucat n Amerika Samoa and Francophone Quebec Together the volume is the most comprehensive and expansive critical handbook of Indigenous American literatures published to date It is the first to fully take into account the last twenty years of recovery and scholarship and the first to most significantly address the diverse range of texts secondary archives writing traditions literary histories geographic and political contexts and critical discourses in the field
