Making it Modern Aaron Betsky, 2016-12-15 At its root modernism is that fundamental It is a question of having something to represent that is of the moment In the most radical interpretation modernism always comes too late The modern is that which is always new which is to say always changing and already old by the time it has appeared Modernism is always a retrospective act one of documenting or trying to catch what has already appeared an attempt to fix life as it is being lived Modernity is just the very fact that we as human beings are continually remaking the world around us through our actions and are doing so consciously Modernism is a monument to or memory of that act which in its own making tries to remake the world it is pretending to represent New Makers of Modern Culture Justin Wintle, 2016-04-22 New Makers of stimulating questions of personal and national identity nature and culture weather and climate permanence and impermanence and life and death Conceiving a building as a dialogue between a monument and a ruin intensifies the already blurred relations between the unfinished and the ruined and envisages the past the present and the future in a single architecture Structured around a collection of biographies this book conceives a monument and a ruin as metaphors for a life and means to negotiate between a self and a society Emphasising the interconnections between designers and the particular ways in which later architects learned from earlier ones the chapters investigate an evolving interdisciplinary design practice to show the relevance of historical understanding to design Like a history a design is a reinterpretation of the past that is meaningful to the present Equally a design is equivalent to a fiction convincing users to suspend disbelief We expect a history or a novel to be written in words but they can also be delineated in drawing cast in concrete or seeded in soil The architect is a physical novelist as well as a physical historian Like building sites ruins are full of potential In revealing not only what is lost but also what is incomplete a ruin suggests the future as well as the past As a stimulus to the imagination a ruin s incomplete and broken forms expand architecture s allegorical and metaphorical capacity indicating that a building can remain unfinished literally and in the imagination focusing attention on the creativity of users as well as architects Emphasising the symbiotic relations between nature and culture a building designed occupied and imagined as a ruin acknowledges the coproduction of multiple authors whether human non human or atmospheric and is an appropriate model for architecture in an era of increasing climate change
