The Triumph of the Gun-Rights Argument Harry L. Wilson, 2015-01-16 Taking the bold position that the battle over gun control has already been won by the pro gun rights faction this book will be equally informative to those immersed in the debate and those new to it Gun control evokes passions equaled by few other subjects As this book shows the debate over firearms begins with cultural values and extends into questions of constitutional rights public health and safety and politics Examining its subject through the prism of the Sandy Hook shootings the book looks at the influence of elected officials the courts interest groups and average citizens in shaping gun control laws It shares poll results detailing what the public really thinks about guns and why and it explains the various components of gun policy and policymaking to show how they come together to form the current reality While small skirmishes about the right to bear arms will continue for some time the author a self described gun owning academic asserts that changing public opinion Supreme Court decisions dominance of gun rights interest groups the Democratic Party s virtual withdrawal from the discussion and a declining violent crime rate have formed a perfect storm resulting in the effective end of the gun control debate This assertion and the thoughtful examination that leads to it will be of equal interest to those engaged in the argument and those researching it for the first time

Prisoner Reentry Stan Stojkovic,2017-07-06

This book addresses the core issues in prisoner reentry into society after incarceration. The chapters are written by academic scholars who have much experience researching and writing about prisoner reentry and by people who work in the field of prison reentry. Comprising reviews of empirical literature, this study is also supplemented by the workings of a reentry agency in the state of California. The focus of the work is to provide the best practices within prisoner reentry programs to explore the barriers experienced by both prisoners and reentry agencies as they work toward the reentry of prisoners and to discuss critical issues associated with prisoner reentry. The authors broach various topics regarding life after imprisonment such as the financial burden, problems faced by sex offenders, changing family dynamics, and employment. An engaging and thought-provoking study, this book will be of particular interest to scholars of criminology, theory, the justice system, and sociology.

Failed Promises David M. Konisky, 2015-04-10. A systematic evaluation of the implementation of the federal government's environmental justice policies. In the 1970s and 1980s, the U.S. Congress passed a series of laws that were milestones in environmental protection, including the Clean Air Act and the Clean Water Act. But by the 1990s, it was clear that environmental benefits were not evenly distributed and that poor and minority communities bore disproportionate environmental burdens. The Clinton administration put these concerns on the environmental policy agenda, most notably with a 1994 executive order that called on federal agencies to consider environmental justice issues whenever appropriate. This volume offers the first systematic, empirically based evaluation of the effectiveness of the federal government's environmental justice policies. The contributors consider three overlapping aspects of environmental justice: distributive justice or the equitable distribution of environmental burdens and benefits; procedural justice or the fairness of the decision-making process itself; and corrective justice or the fairness of punishment and compensation. Focusing on the central role of the Environmental Protection Agency, they discuss such topics as facility permitting, rulemaking, participatory processes, bias in enforcement, and the role of the courts in redressing environmental injustices. Taken together, the contributions suggest that, despite recent environmental justice initiatives from the Obama administration, the federal government has largely failed to deliver on its promises of environmental justice. Contributors: Dorothy M. Daley, Eileen Gauna, Elizabeth Gross, David M. Konisky, Douglas S. Noonan, Tony G. Reames, Christopher Reenock, Ronald J. Shadbegian, Paul Stretesky, Ann Wolverton.
